CLEANING UP THE COLONY

WE have a dirty city—no mistake about that, but in Hongkong as in many other places, the dirt is not in the hand with poverty. And it will probably never be entirely eliminated, not until living standards are substantially raised, the slums swept away and a new idea of domestic and civic pride generated in the community.

This does not mean that the Urban Council is wasting its time with Miss Ping On, however. It is doing the right thing by concentrating on a few of the most objectionable practices which are by no means the peculiar offences of the very poor.

This, the campaign is markedly different from those conducted in Western countries against litterbugs. There it is assumed that there is a degree of civic consciousness. Here it is nonexistent. Ideally a campaign for a cleaner city should involve a basic re-education of the people, but this is clearly beyond the Council's scope, and it must be satisfied if it can prick the Colony's conscience on its worst habits.

Some Excuse

THERE is some excuse for poor people being dirty and slovenly—there is no incentive for them to be any better. It is the people from clean and well-to-do homes who deserve to be prosecuted for dumping rubbish carelessly, allowing animals to encourage children to relieve themselves over gutters and of course, spitting.

A few solid fines would do the world of good, and while it is proper that the Urban Council concentrates its campaign in areas like Shamshuipo and Western district, they should not ignore the better class residential districts and the parks.

One big contribution to the dirty condition of the Colony's back streets is the refuse which chokes up the roads on which vegetable stalls are situated. This may be due to a lack of market accommodation, but their removal to a building where they could be properly supervised, would make a big contribution to cleaning up the back streets.

Then there are those frequently heard criticisms of people who dump rubbish from the upper floors of tenements. But what has to be impressed upon all offenders is the danger that all this lack of consideration and laziness constitutes to public health.

A Follow-Up

AS for painful deterrents the public will have noticed the increased number being fined for spitting. It will help to make examples of other kinds of offenders too. It is to be hoped that the campaign becomes an annual affair and is not just an isolated burst of enthusiasm.

The Urban Council's pin-up on this occasion—Miss Ping On—is a clever and attractive symbol and the resettlement estate competitions held earlier this year were a good idea which might be worth following up. As with spitting, it is doubtful whether Hongkong will show any improvement after one campaign. But old hands 40 years on might be able to tell their grandchildren that "Shamshuipo was never like this when I was a boy."

POLICE, CROWD IN CLASH AT LITTLE ROCK SCHOOL

'We Don't Want To Integrate'

Little Rock, Aug. 12. Police used truncheons and firehoses here today to subdue an angry crowd shouting "we don't want to integrate," as Little Rock opened its white school to Negroes for the second time.

At least 15 people were arrested. One young man fell and was thrust into a police wagon, his head streaming with blood and a screaming woman was huddled in too.

Central High School was the focus of unrest as in 1957 when Federal troops were sent in by President Eisenhower to restore order after nine Negroes were admitted by order of the Supreme Court.

Two Enter School

This time only two went in, both making the lonely trip into the school for the second time. Jefferson Thomas, 10, and Elizabeth Eckford, 15, walked unhurriedly across the vast lawns and into the school while police held back the crowd at a nearby crossroad with flailing truncheons and streaming jets of water.

About 200 men, women and boys broke away from the rally and defied police chief Gene Smith's orders to stay away from the school. "Get Gene Smith" one man yelled as the crowd surged forward. "Cowards," they yelled and someone taunted the police: "Why don't you draw your guns."

Demonstration

The crowd had broken away from a big segregation demonstration on the lawns of the capitol. The Governor, Mr. Orval Faubus, who has defied President Eisenhower and the Supreme Court for two years to prevent integration told the rally: "I am with you all the way."

The Governor has kept all the city's four high schools closed for a year.

While the demonstrators at the capitol waved Confederate flags and distributed leaflets headed: "The Negro's ambition—a mongrel American race," three young Negro girl students had slipped quietly into Hall High School without incident.

They were driven there in a private car watched only by about 20 people.

'I'm With You'

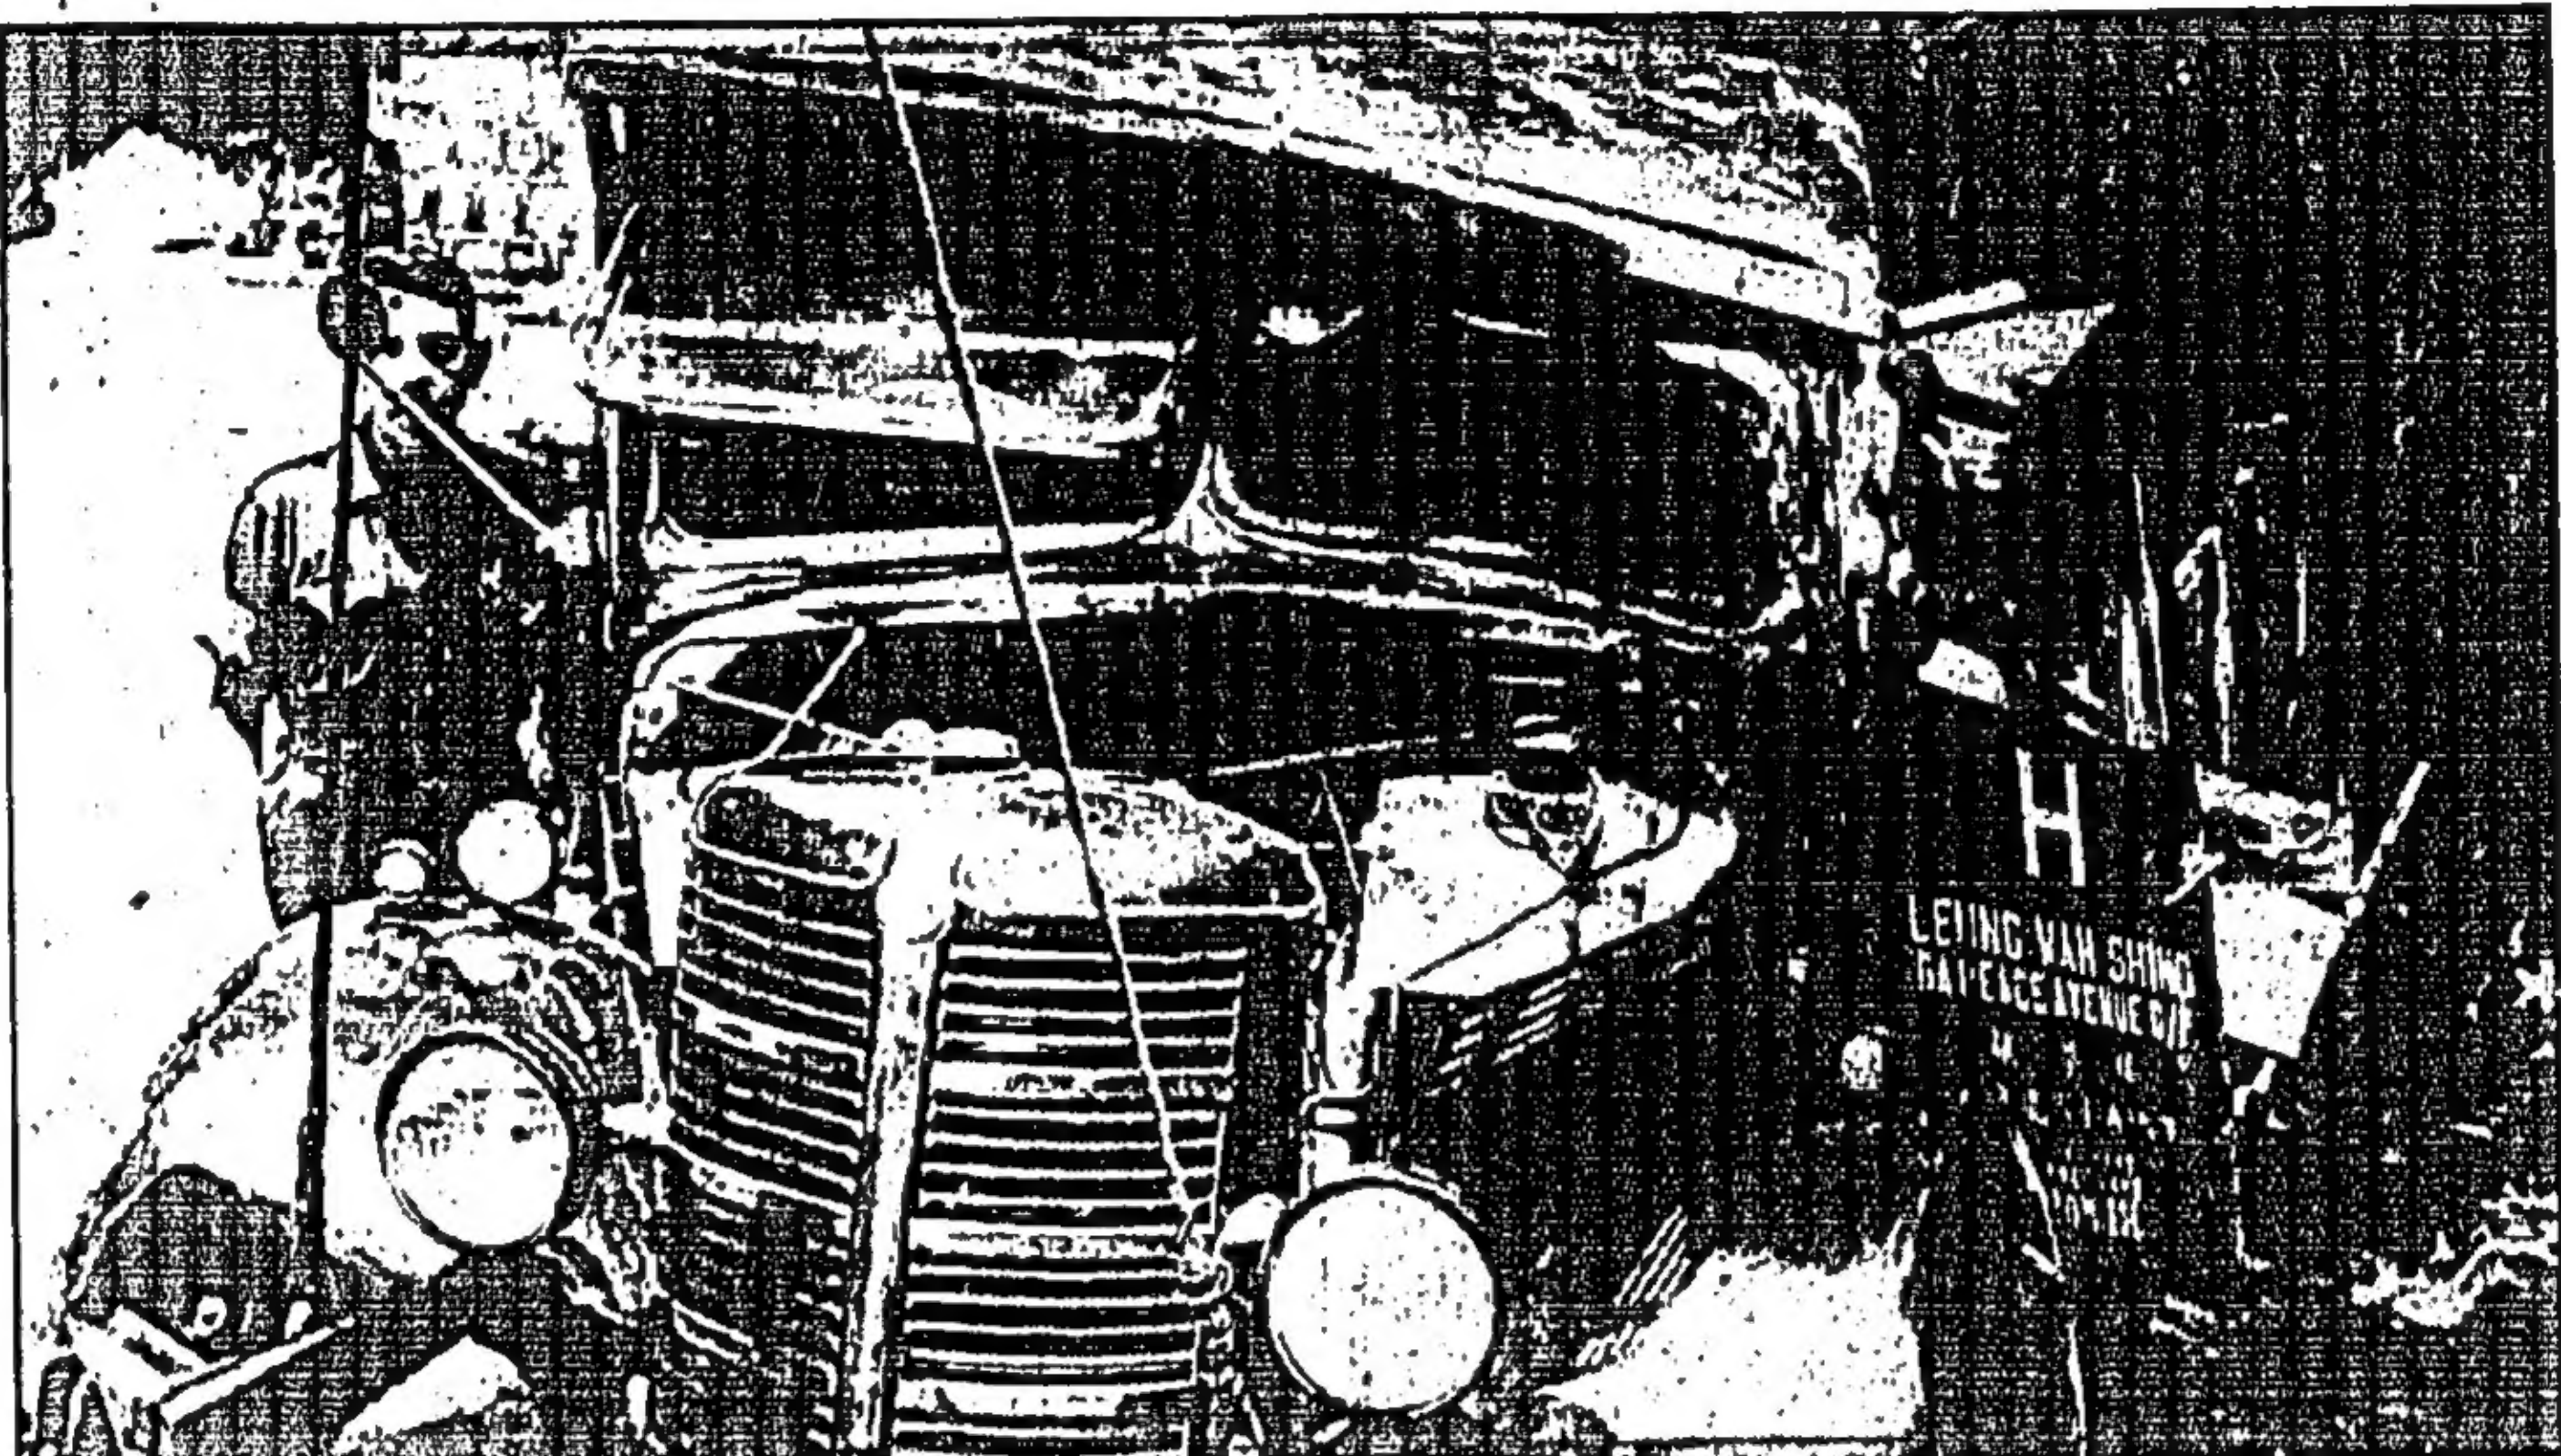

The march towards Central High started after Governor Faubus appeared at the rally. He was greeted by a storm of applause when he said he was "with them all the way."

"I see no reason for you to be beaten over the head or to be gassed. That should be faced only as a last resort—not today."

Let us continue the struggle and never grow weary. But let us do this in a way of which posterity can be proud."

As the marchers headed for the school, the police chief ordered them to disperse and was met with jeers and cries of "you cowards." The police laid about them with truncheons, then turned a firehose on them. Meanwhile the three Negro girls left Hall High School at the end of their morning classes and said there was "no trouble worth reporting."

Some of the white students arriving to start their classes joined in the catcalls directed at the police by the dispersed leaders.—Reuters.

Two Killed, Three Hurt In Repulse Bay Crash

Two women were killed and two men and another woman injured when a lorry carrying a 3-ton crate of motor spare parts overturned in Beach Road, Repulse Bay, shortly before 10 o'clock this morning.

The scene of the accident was a few yards from the Island Road flypass over Beach Road.

The two women were crushed to death under the 6,944 lbs weight of a crate seven feet square by two feet high containing truck spare parts.

Two men including the driver sitting in the cabin escaped injury though the left windshield, left door, the engine hood, near-front mudguard, and the engine itself were all smashed.

The lorry was carrying the cargo from Wanchai waterfront to a godown in South Bay for Hua Nan Motors Ltd., with three women and two men sitting on the crate.

At 11.30 a.m. the huge crate was still left on the scene where the two women died. Scattered around were three women's coolie hats. Two crushed sun helmets and a straw hat were placed on the crate.

The dead and the injured were sent to Queen Mary Hospital by ambulance. The damaged lorry was inspected by the police and later towed away for repair.

The spare parts had recently been shipped here by Dodge Brothers (Britain) Ltd., Kew, Surrey, England, to Hua Nan Motors Ltd., Hongkong.

The lorry belongs to Li Wah alias Leung Wah Shing Transport Co. of 6A Pence Avenue, ground floor.

Socialists Are Expecting An October Election

London, Aug. 12. The British Labour Party began overhauling its election machinery today with a warning to its branches throughout the nation that E-Day probably would be set for October.

The election machinery first went into gear last November when the Party issued a campaign guide entitled "Into Action" with its sights on a May election.

The machinery slowed up when it became obvious that the May date was out of focus.

Today the Party announced it was issuing an eight-page supplement to "Into Action" which warns the local party branches throughout Britain "Now we must train our sights on October."

The supplement indicated that the party expected the elections to be held early in October.

Although the popular tip for the election date among the political pundits was for October there was still no hint from the ruling Conservative Party if they had decided on that date.—UPI.

BRITISH TROOPS SENT TO MALDIVES

London, Aug. 13.

A Ministry of Defence spokesman said today that a company of the 1st Battalion, the Cheshire Regiment had been flown to the Island of Gan, in the Maldives.

The regiment is based on Singapore. The company, of between 100 and 150 men, was carried in Hastings aircraft. The spokesman said, "the communication handed to the acting Maldivian representative at Colombo and published on August 8, made it clear that H.M. Government has been concerned at the possible threat to the safety of British installations and personnel established under treaty rights on Gan and Hiltidu Islands.

"Advantage has been taken of the availability of a company of the Cheshire Regiment to send them temporarily to Gan on an air mobility exercise."—AFP.

London Exhibition To Aid HK Refugees

Hongkong 'Village' built in the courtyard of St Martin-In-The-Fields Church in London by Rover Scouts as part of an exhibition to raise funds for the International Refugee Year.—The Times Photo.

London, Aug. 12. Hongkong "Village" of forty typical Chinese refugee hovels has been built in the courtyard of the historic St-Martin-In-The-Fields Church in London.

The "village" is the basis of an exhibition called "See how they live". It will be opened on Friday by the former Governor of Hongkong, Sir Alexander Grantham, on behalf of the Inter-Church Aid and Refugee Service to raise funds for the International Refugee Year.

The "village" has been built in their spare time by 30 senior Rover Scouts who collected rubble for the job from the City of Westminster's salvage dump. Scouts used beaten-out oil drums, cardboard wood and sackings and constructed hovels from photographs and drawings supplied by the Inter-Church Aid and Refugee Service.

A crate of "typical" refugee possessions was sent from Hongkong to furnish the village. Leading up to the "village" is the "street" built by the Bank Organisation from their "props" for filming "Ferry to Hongkong" and "Wraithum's Way".

A spokesman for the Organisation said today "Lord Rank, particularly, wanted to make a gesture like this to help with refugee appeal."

The Inter-Church Aid and Refugee Service have pledged themselves to raise a quarter (about £300,000) of the International Refugee Year's total. Funds for this latest exhibition will go towards a vocational training college for refugees to be built in Hongkong at the cost of £250,000.—London Express Service.

FOOD SHORTAGES IN CAPITAL & SHANGHAI

Peking Floods: Worst For 100 Years

Peking, Aug. 12. Peking has experienced "a disaster without precedent for some 100 years" this summer as a result of torrential rains and a third of arable land has been flooded.

The Peking People's Daily said this today. It warned the people that they must not wait for "provisioning at home" but must themselves take part in the evacuation of the flood waters, in the hope that and in the autumn sowing.

Flying Squads

The paper stressed the need to increase production of secondary foodstuffs in both town and country.

The newspaper reported that the Political Consultative Conference and the Peking City Council had decided to organize flying squads to inspect stricken areas in the district surrounding the capital.

The People's China Press intensified its appeals for solidarity among the citizens of the nation's large towns so as to avoid a shortage of certain foodstuffs, including vegetables, as a result of the recent floods and drought. Observers here considered that both the warning given to town dwellers and the emphasis put on the extent of the natural disasters this summer indicated increased food supply difficulties this winter.

Rationed

Foodstuffs currently rationed in Peking are rice, flour, meat and oil.

In addition poultry and eggs are practically unavailable and cabbage, a basic foodstuff in the Chinese diet, has been getting scarcer during the past few weeks.

Supplies vary from one town to the other and are reportedly worse in Shanghai than in Peking.—APP.

VIENNA TRADE FAIR:

HK Government Man Meets Up With A Snag

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT

London, Aug. 12.

Language difficulties are proving a headache for Mr E. G. A. Grimwood, Hongkong's government officer in London and organiser of the Colony's stand at the Vienna Trade Fair.

"Life is made much more complicated by difference in languages," he told me today. "I do not speak German and everything to do with the fair has to pass through an interpreter." But he added that planning of the Colony's stand will cost in freight, rent and other expenses about £8,000 — has now entered the final stages.

The stand will occupy about 4,000 sq. ft at the week long fair which opens on September 6. A cross-section of Hongkong's exports will be on show including for the first time exhibits of Hongkong manufactured milk, shoes. And the cinema will show films on the Colony.

"We hope the fair will help us develop our own European markets as well as encourage European countries to export goods to Hongkong," Mr Grimwood told me.

This is the first time the Colony has had a stand at the annual Vienna fair but it has exhibited over years at Frankfurt, Montreal, Toronto, New York and Seattle. Mr Grimwood will travel to Vienna on September 1 and will be joined by an eight-man delegation led by a Hongkong businessman, Mr George Marden.—London Express Service.

Full Court Turns Down Appeal In Drug Case

The Chief Justice, Sir Michael Hoggan, said this morning that he did not consider sentence of two and a half years too heavy for the crime of dealing in narcotics even for a first offender in view of the serious and damaging nature of this practice and its widespread and serious consequences.

Sitting with Mr Justice J. R. Gregg on the Full Court, Sir Michael refused to reduce a similar sentence passed by Judge H. H. B. How in Kowloon on Ng Chun for dealing in heroin and barbitone.

Mr V. J. L. D'Alton, who represented Ng appealed on the ground that the sentence was excessive in view of the circumstances of the case and in view of the fact that Ng had a clean record.

CONCURRENT

Mr D'Alton said that two men tried together with Ng were given concurrent sentences which would place them in prison for the same period as Ng although they were convicted of two charges of possession of the drugs and dealing in them. Ng was convicted of one charge only after the Police withdrew a second charge against him.

Dismissing the appeal, the Chief Justice said that although this argument might carry weight in appeals against sentence with regard to other offences, the Court could not give it any weight in cases of possession of dangerous drugs and dealing in them.

36-Exposure Magazines

Kodak 35 mm Ektachrome film is now being imported into the Colony in 36-exposure magazines. Until recently the same type of film was only available in 20-exposure magazines. This should reduce the cost per colour slide for amateur and professional photographers. It is also more convenient in that fewer camera loadings are necessary.

Woman Fatally Injured

A 35-year-old woman, Tsang Yuk-yung, who lived in hut No. 271, Section 1 North, Wong Tai Sin Residential Area, was knocked down and fatally injured by a bus in Clear Water Bay Road, near Sha Tin Pk Road, shortly before 8 o'clock this morning. She died a few minutes after admission to Kowloon Hospital.

Key Money

In a building nearby where they could only offer him half the floor area of his existing premises, he had been asked for $10,000 key money and $1,000 a month rent.

A sub-tenant who has occupied a room for seventeen years, for which she paid $12 a month to the principal tenant, said she had no relatives, her two sons having died during the Japanese occupation.

Friends sometimes gave her food.

Forty-one tenants and sub-tenants all except one being represented by counsel.

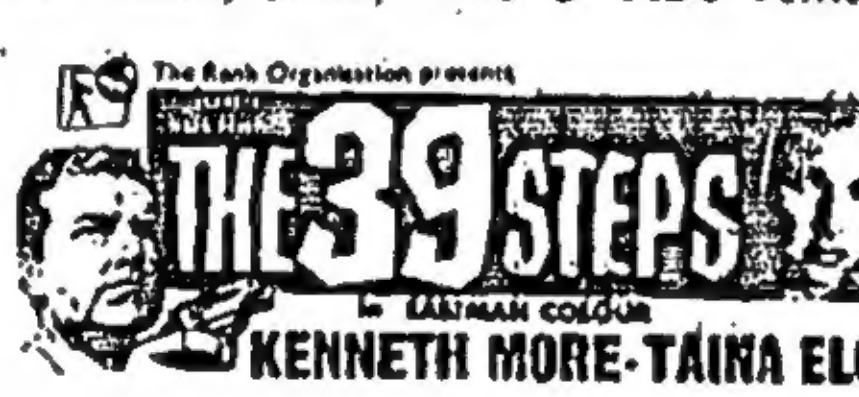

Applicants are represented by Mr D. A. L. Wright.

The tribunal consists of Mr J. R. Oliver (President), Mr R. S. Muthart and Mr R. J. Piccinello.

Hearing continues.

British Motor Strike Called Off

Britain's Big Motorway

UNIONS REACH AGREEMENT WITH BMC

One Killed In Bridge Collapse

Los Angeles, Aug. 12. An old vehicular bridge over railroad tracks which was being rebuilt collapsed at noon today, killing one workman and injuring six others.

The Charlotte Avenue overpass, a 100-foot long span, collapsed and buckled in a 20-foot center section, sending six men 27 feet to the ground. Three were pinned under the debris of wet concrete, wood and steel tubing. The other three fell clear of the debris.

Police identified the dead man as Israel Garcia. He died when steel tubing from scaffolding pierced his chest.

The collapse occurred when concrete was being poured onto the bridge from a long-necked crane.

—UPI.

A SERIOUS dislocation of the British motor car industry was avoided this evening when a settlement was announced in the strike at Morris Motors, Cowley, Oxford, over the dismissal of a chief shop steward.

After six hours of talks today between the chief industrial commissioner, Mr Peter St John Wilson, and union and employers representatives it was announced that agreement had been reached and work would resume forthwith.

Nearly half the labour force had come out on strike at Cowley on Monday over the sacking of Mr Frank Horsman, 44, for alleged "obstruction, insubordination and insolence."

Employees alleged Mr Horsman had been victimised and demanded his reinstatement.

As effects of the strike spread to members of the British Motor Corporation group—biggest car makers outside the United States—1,800 workers had to be held off in Birmingham.

Plans had been drawn up in Birmingham by union officials for a one day token strike in support of the Cowley workers. This would have brought out a further 12,000 workers.

After the talks today Mr Frank Foulkes, President of the Electrical Trades Union, said Mr Horsman had been transferred to Pressed Steel Works, Oxford, on similar terms and conditions to those held before with Morris Motors.

Tribute Paid

Issuing an agreement statement he said the union had retained the right to take the question of Mr Horsman's dismissal to arbitration.

Mr Foulkes said everybody paid tribute to the efforts of the Ministry in the matter.

Mr Frank Cousins, General Secretary of the Transport and General Workers' Union, another body affected by the strike, commented briefly, "I am not unhappy about the results."—Reuter.

Polygamy Abused In Singapore

Singapore, Aug. 12. The President of the Singapore Muslim Religious Court, Inche Taha Suhaimi, today said that while polygamy was lawful according to the Koran, it was frequently abused.

He told reporters he was worried about the high divorce rate in Singapore, and proposed that prospective bigamists should be asked to state in a questionnaire their financial circumstances, home life, and the number of wives they had had.

The system, which he said, was introduced by President Nasser in Egypt, would put the Kadi (judge) in a better position to decide whether he should perform the marriage ceremony.

He said most of the divorces in Singapore were due to polygamous marriages, and abundance of certain conditions set down in the Koran. Among these, he said, was the ability of the man to "care and provide equal treatment for all the wives."—Reuter.

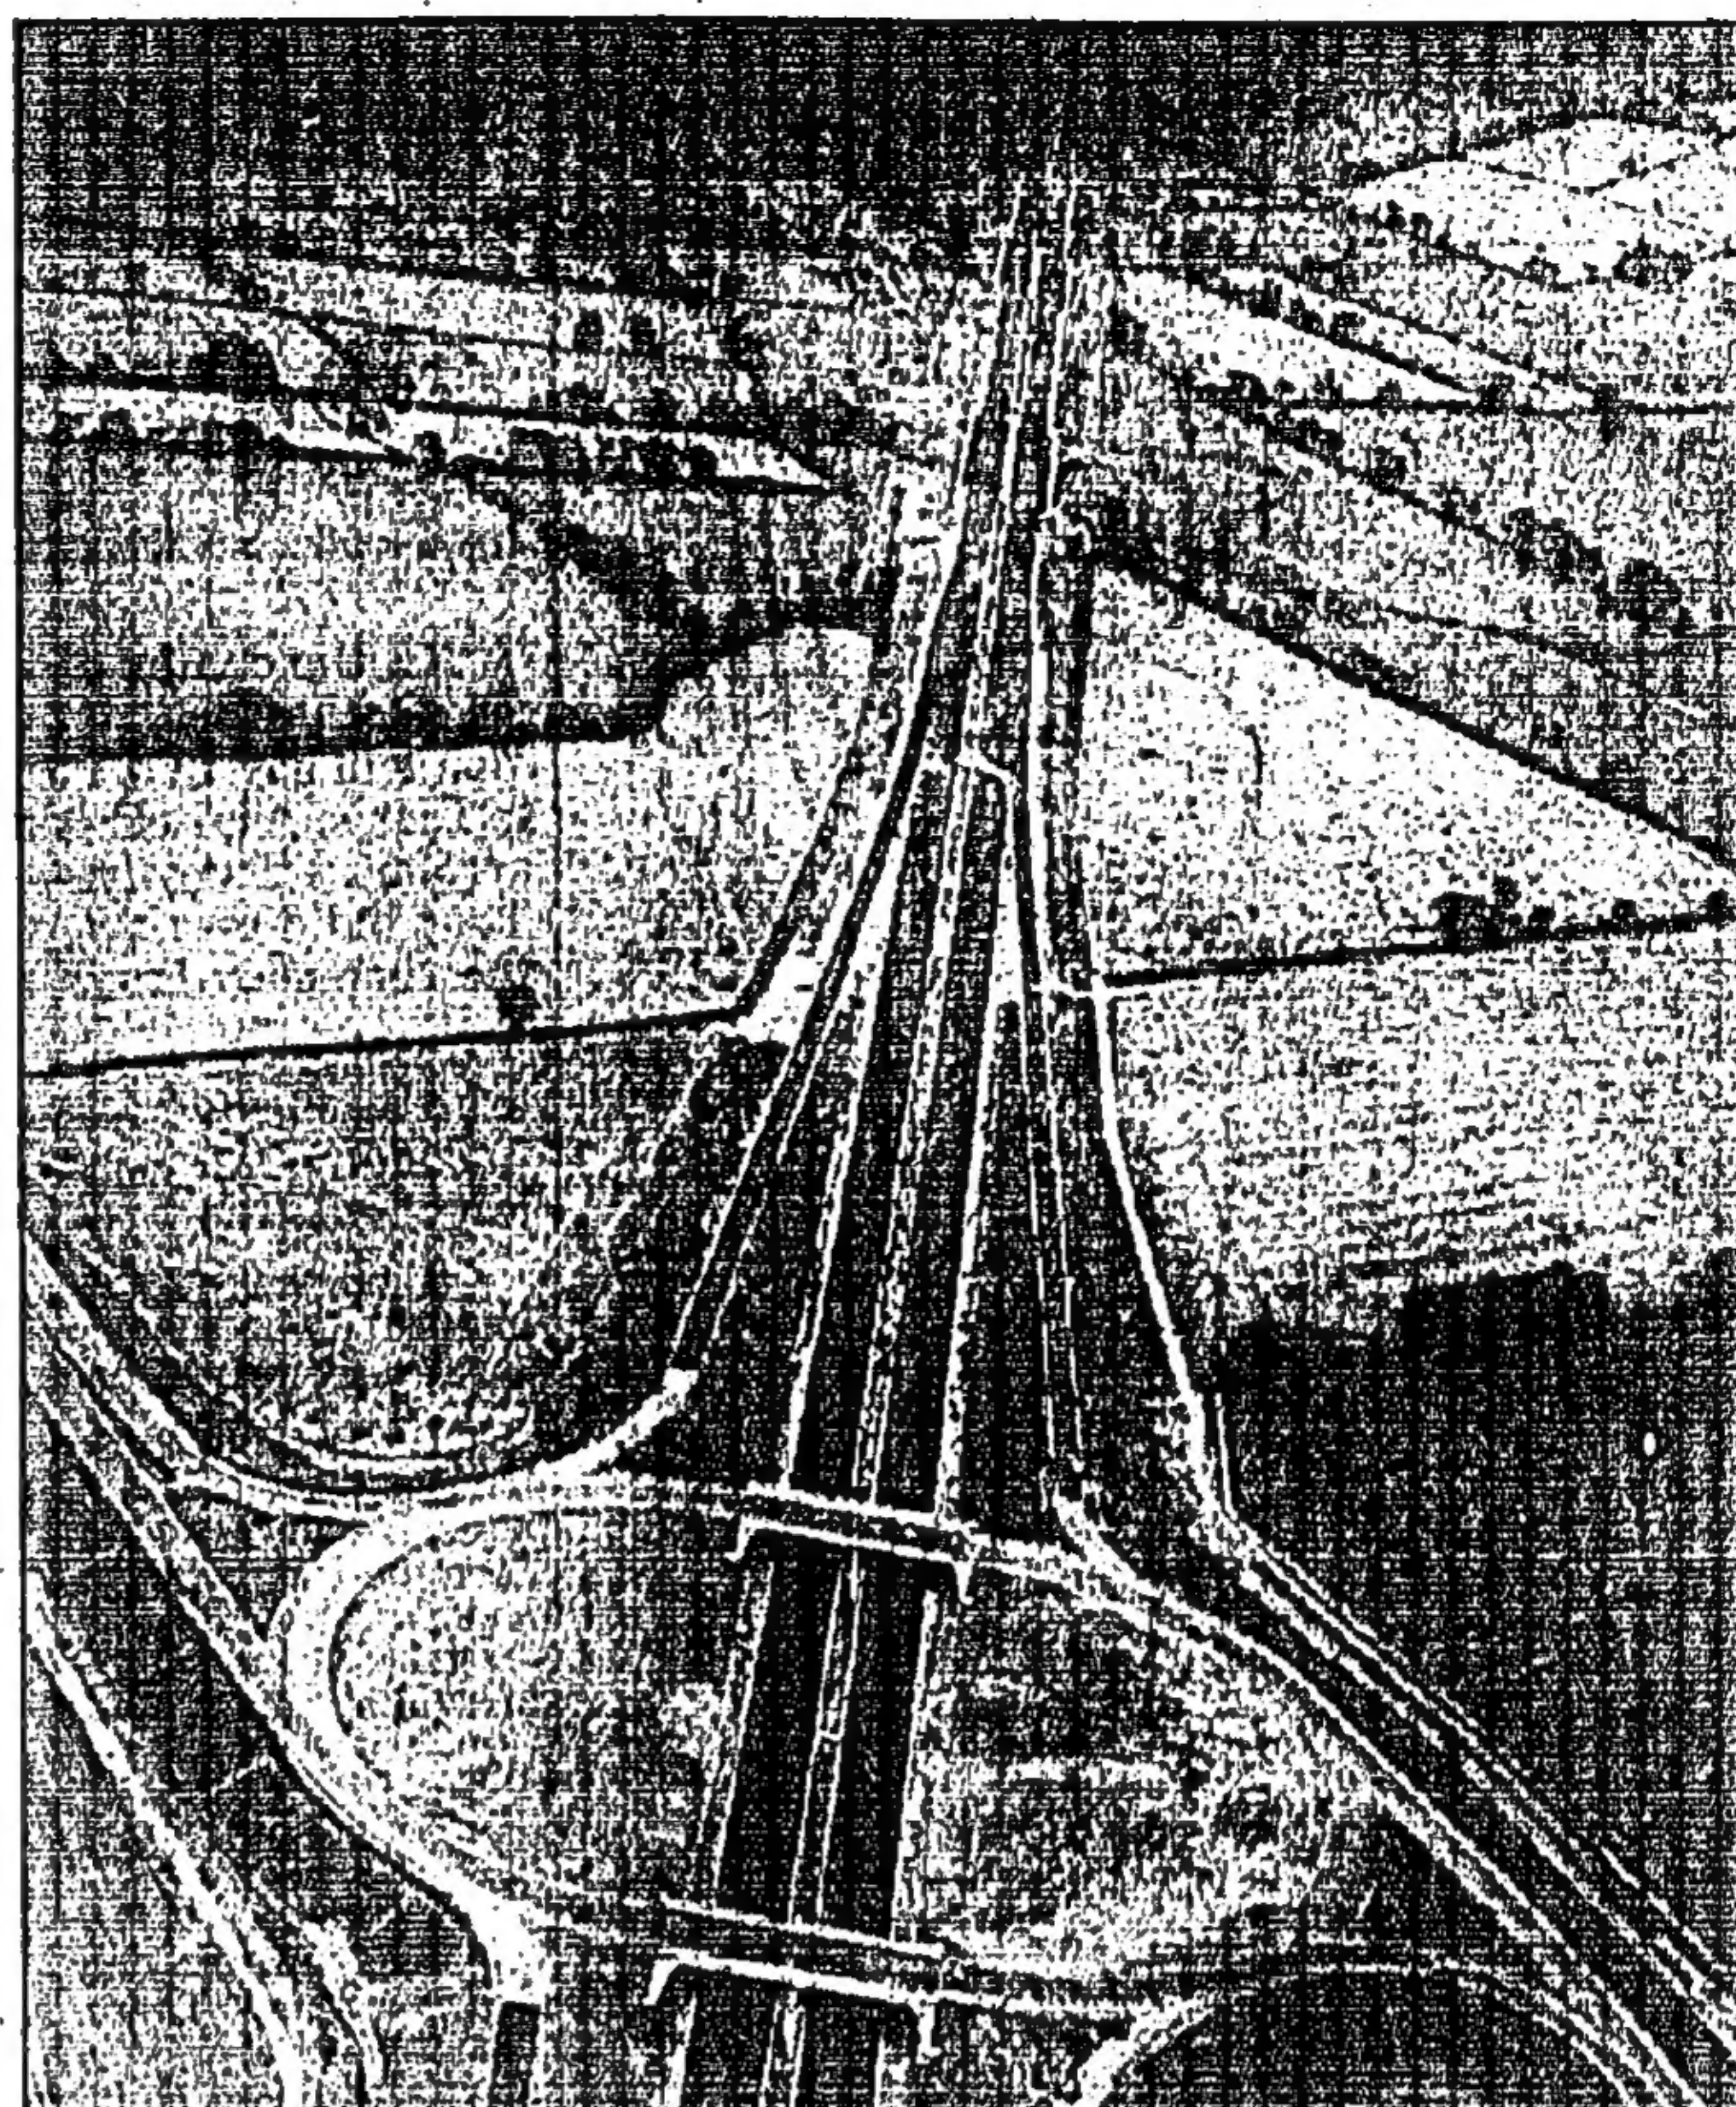

Costly IRA Campaign

Belfast, Aug. 12. Lord Brookeborough, Prime Minister of Northern Ireland, said today that the Irish Republican Army campaign, which started three years ago had cost about £2,000,000 in security measures and damage.

There had been nearly 500 acts of aggression, he added in a speech at Lisnakea, County Fermanagh.

The aim of the IRA is to end the partition of Ireland—China Mail Special.

Pariva, Italy, Aug. 12. Another three elephants are to walk over the Italian Alps next week in an attempt to prove that the Carthaginian General Hannibal invaded Italy through the Clapier Pass and not as tradition has it through the St Bernard Pass.

The first drivers—a squad of Press motoring correspondents—last Thursday tackled 56 miles of Britain's first major motorway, the London-Birmingham Motorway, due to be opened to the public on October 31. General verdict included the opinion that the motorway is safer than Continental equivalents because the monotony of long straights is more broken up by shallow, and sometimes gently banked curves. All of them are designed to be taken at 75 mph, but the safety margin allows them to be taken at up to 100 mph with ease. The £16,000,000 motorway has 132 bridges (all built except one), some 60 of them at a cost of £15-20,000 each just to provide footpath access to farms and factories. The twin carriageways are 75 feet wide, with six traffic lanes.

Criminal Folly To Start Nuclear Tests—Gaitskell

London, Aug. 12. It would be criminal folly for any nation to start holding nuclear tests again at a time when there was a "truce" between the three major Powers regarding tests, Mr Hugh Gaitskell, leader of the Labour Opposition said today.

He was speaking at Wellington on the first day of a concentrated three-day tour of eight constituencies in Kent.

Mr Gaitskell said: "I believe the British people, as a whole, would deeply regret it if the United States were to start up tests again."

Express Views

"While President Eisenhower is here, I very much hope the British Government will express the same views to him personally," he said.

He was discussing reports that the United States would begin a new series of tests in October.

Of the proposed interchange of visits by the Russian and American leaders, Mr Gaitskell said: "I believe these visits may diminish the mutual fears and suspicions which so frequently obstruct the path to agreement."—Reuter.

London, Aug. 12. Robin Bradshaw took a large black umbrella when he left home on a 35,000-mile motor scooter journey to 34 African countries. "It looks ridiculous but it will be jolly useful in a monsoon," Mr Bradshaw, 22-year-old Oxford graduate, said at a press conference.

During his "scooter safari" he plans to make a series of documentary films including one on apartheid in Capetown. He hopes to be back in London by Christmas 1960 returning via West Africa and Spain.

"I am especially interested in the emergence of African nationalism," said Mr Bradshaw who lived for five years in South Africa where he went to school in Pietermaritzburg.—China Mail Special.

TENSION MOUNTS IN HAVANA

Many Arrests Reported

Havana, Aug. 12. INTERNAL political tension mounted today with unconfirmed reports of fighting in Las Villas Province and increasing signs that the anti-Government conspiracy has not been completely wiped out.

Events pointing up the tense situation include these:

- Suspension of telephone communications with Las Villas Province by Government order.

- Continued arrests of persons suspected of participation in the plot, with some estimates running as high as 3,000, including many in the interior of the island.

No Address

- Premier Fidel Castro's failure to appear last night for a scheduled nationwide radio-television address to report on the Government's success in putting down the conspiracy.

- Information from reliable sources that the conspiracy's masterminds escaped arrest, leaving the Government only the movement's figureheads and/or money men.

- Castro's apparent indecision about his personal participation in the Foreign Ministers' conference in Santiago where friends say he is extremely anxious to appear.

Furthermore, the unconfirmed reports from Las Villas indicate the possibility of some type of open clash between Castro's Government forces and unidentified rebels.

The number of participants in this clash is unknown, but it is believed that there are at least several dead and wounded as a result of it.

Figures Rise

Reports piling into Havana indicate an almost unbelievable number of arrests throughout the island. Informants sources indicate that early reports of more than 1,000 arrested were far below reality. The 1,000 figure probably applied to the first day, roundup on Saturday in Havana alone. In succeeding days, the Havana figure probably has risen another 1,000 while reports from interior cities indicate at least another 1,000 definitely picked up there and the total is still rising rapidly.—UPI.

New Oars

Rubbish

Port Huron, Mich., Aug. 12. The city of Port Huron is trying to find buyers for some of its property.

It stocked up with equipment when it considered going into the garbage collection business in 1951. But the project proved too expensive and was dropped, and the city now wants to sell 9,000 garbage cans.—UPI.

Ship's Mercy Dash To Brisbane

Brisbane, Aug. 13. The 223-ton Japanese fisheries cruiser Shinyo Maru reached Brisbane yesterday after a 600-mile mercy dash with two student fishermen suffering from apparent appendicitis.

Captain Josio Murata said the cruiser was one of 10 ships fishing about 300 miles west of Noumea in New Caledonia when Yashunori Kodama, aged 19, was stricken with appendicitis.

As the Shinyo Maru drew near to Brisbane on the night of August 11, Kyosai Sagara, aged 18, complained of appendicitis, too.

Captain Murata said he had camp to Brisbane rather than to Noumea in New Caledonia because he had been in Brisbane before in 1957 and had enjoyed the city's "very kind" hospitality.

A hospital spokesman said last night that the students' condition was not serious and surgery was not necessary. They are both under observation.—Reuter.

New Move To Check Singapore Gangsters

Singapore, Aug. 12. A criminal procedure amendment bill being introduced in the Singapore Legislative Assembly tomorrow to increase judicial powers is regarded here as a move to check the wave of violence now sweeping the island.

Mr K. M. Byrne, the labour and law minister, said today the Bill, apart from introducing longer periods of imprisonment for offenders, would empower district judges and magistrates to order canings.

OTHER SECTIONS

Trial by jury will be automatic only in the case of capital offences. Otherwise all offenders will be tried only by a judge, except when the Chief Justice directs a jury trial before the High Court.

Other sections of the Bill authorise, with certain safeguards, the admission of police evidence.

In the past three weeks gangsters have killed two men to death and put seven in hospital with stab wounds or beatings. There have been several clashes between gangsters and police in which two thugs have been shot dead and three wounded.—Reuter.

RARE BIRDS TORTURED TO DEATH

Chicago, Aug. 13. Nine rare birds were found tortured, stabbed and beaten to death in their nests today at Lincoln Park Zoo.

Zoo Director Marlin Perkins blamed "wanton, vicious killers with very sick minds."

Police began a search for a 10-year-old boy and his friends who were arrested in September for sneaking into the zoo and killing seven birds.

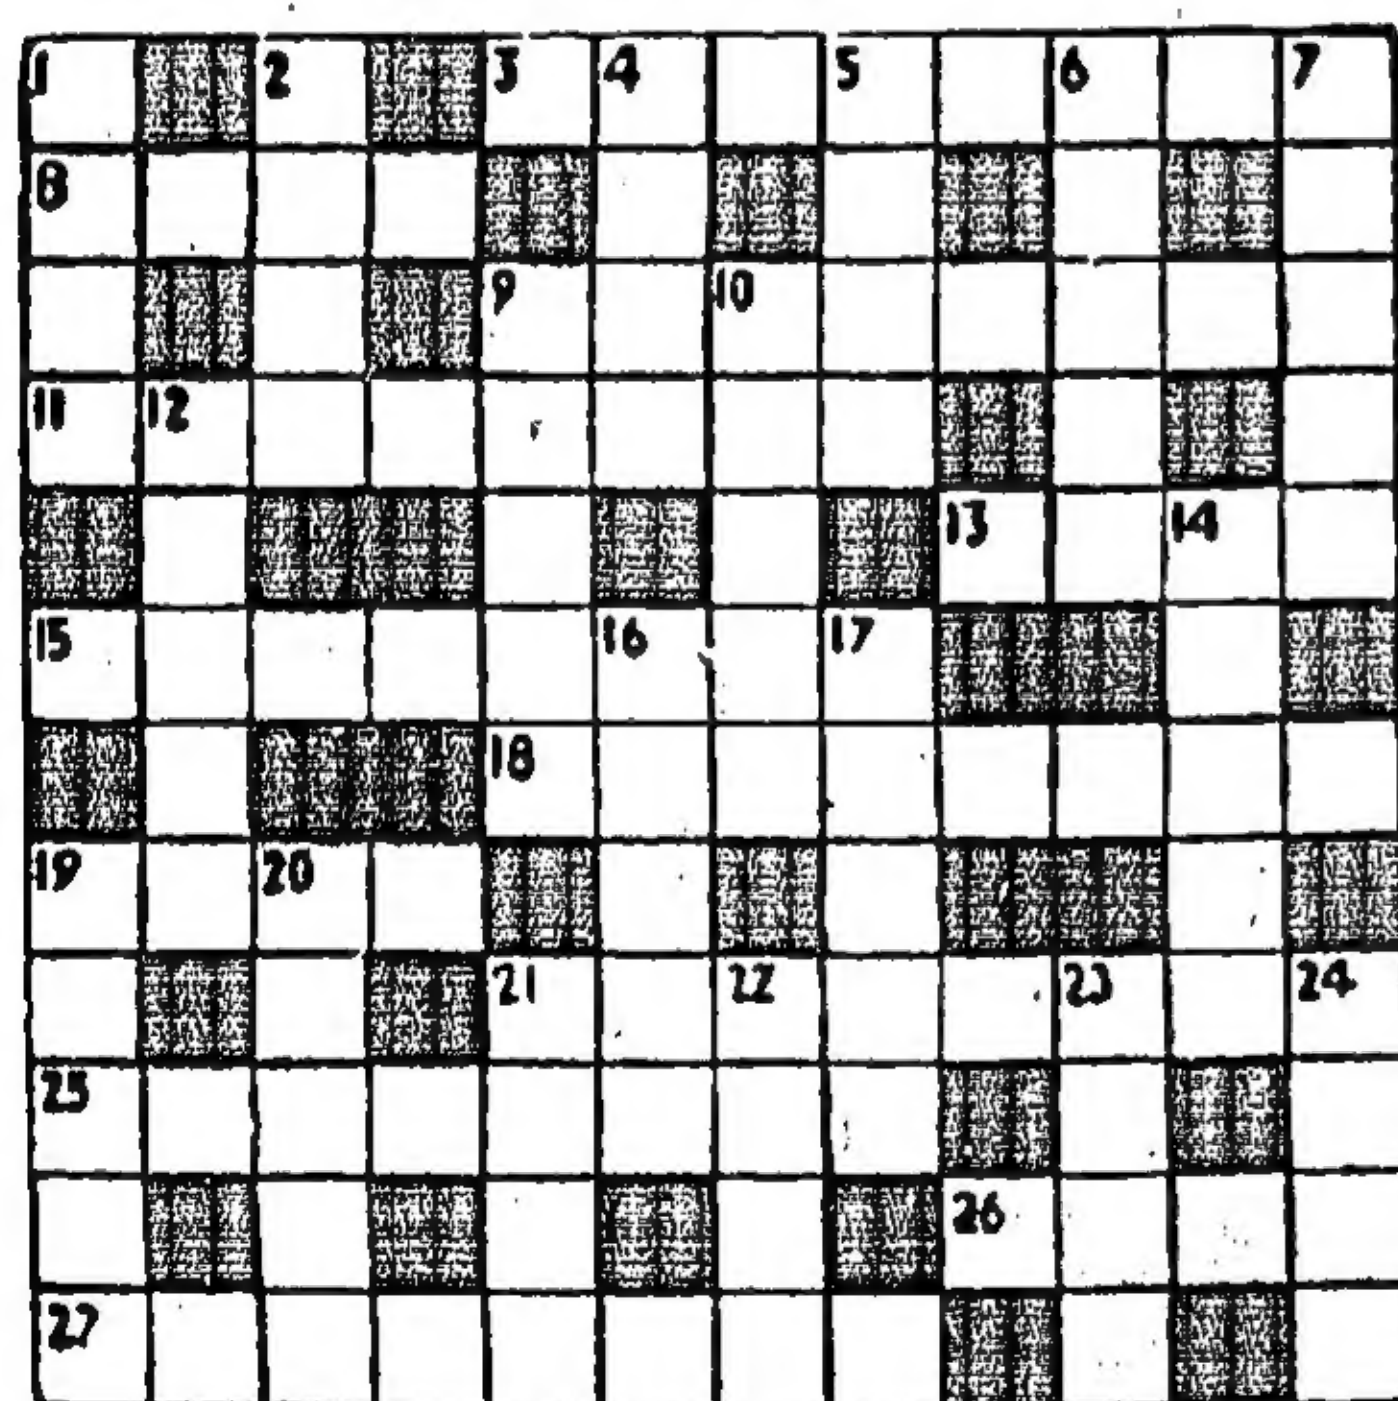

Perkins said the latest victims were stabbed with sharp instruments and clubbed to death. Their wings had been broken and their feathers plucked while they still were alive.—UPI.

Nepal Protests To China

Katmandu, Aug. 12. Nepal has drawn China's attention to alleged recent violations of her northern border with Tibet by Chinese troops, the newspaper Motherland reported today.

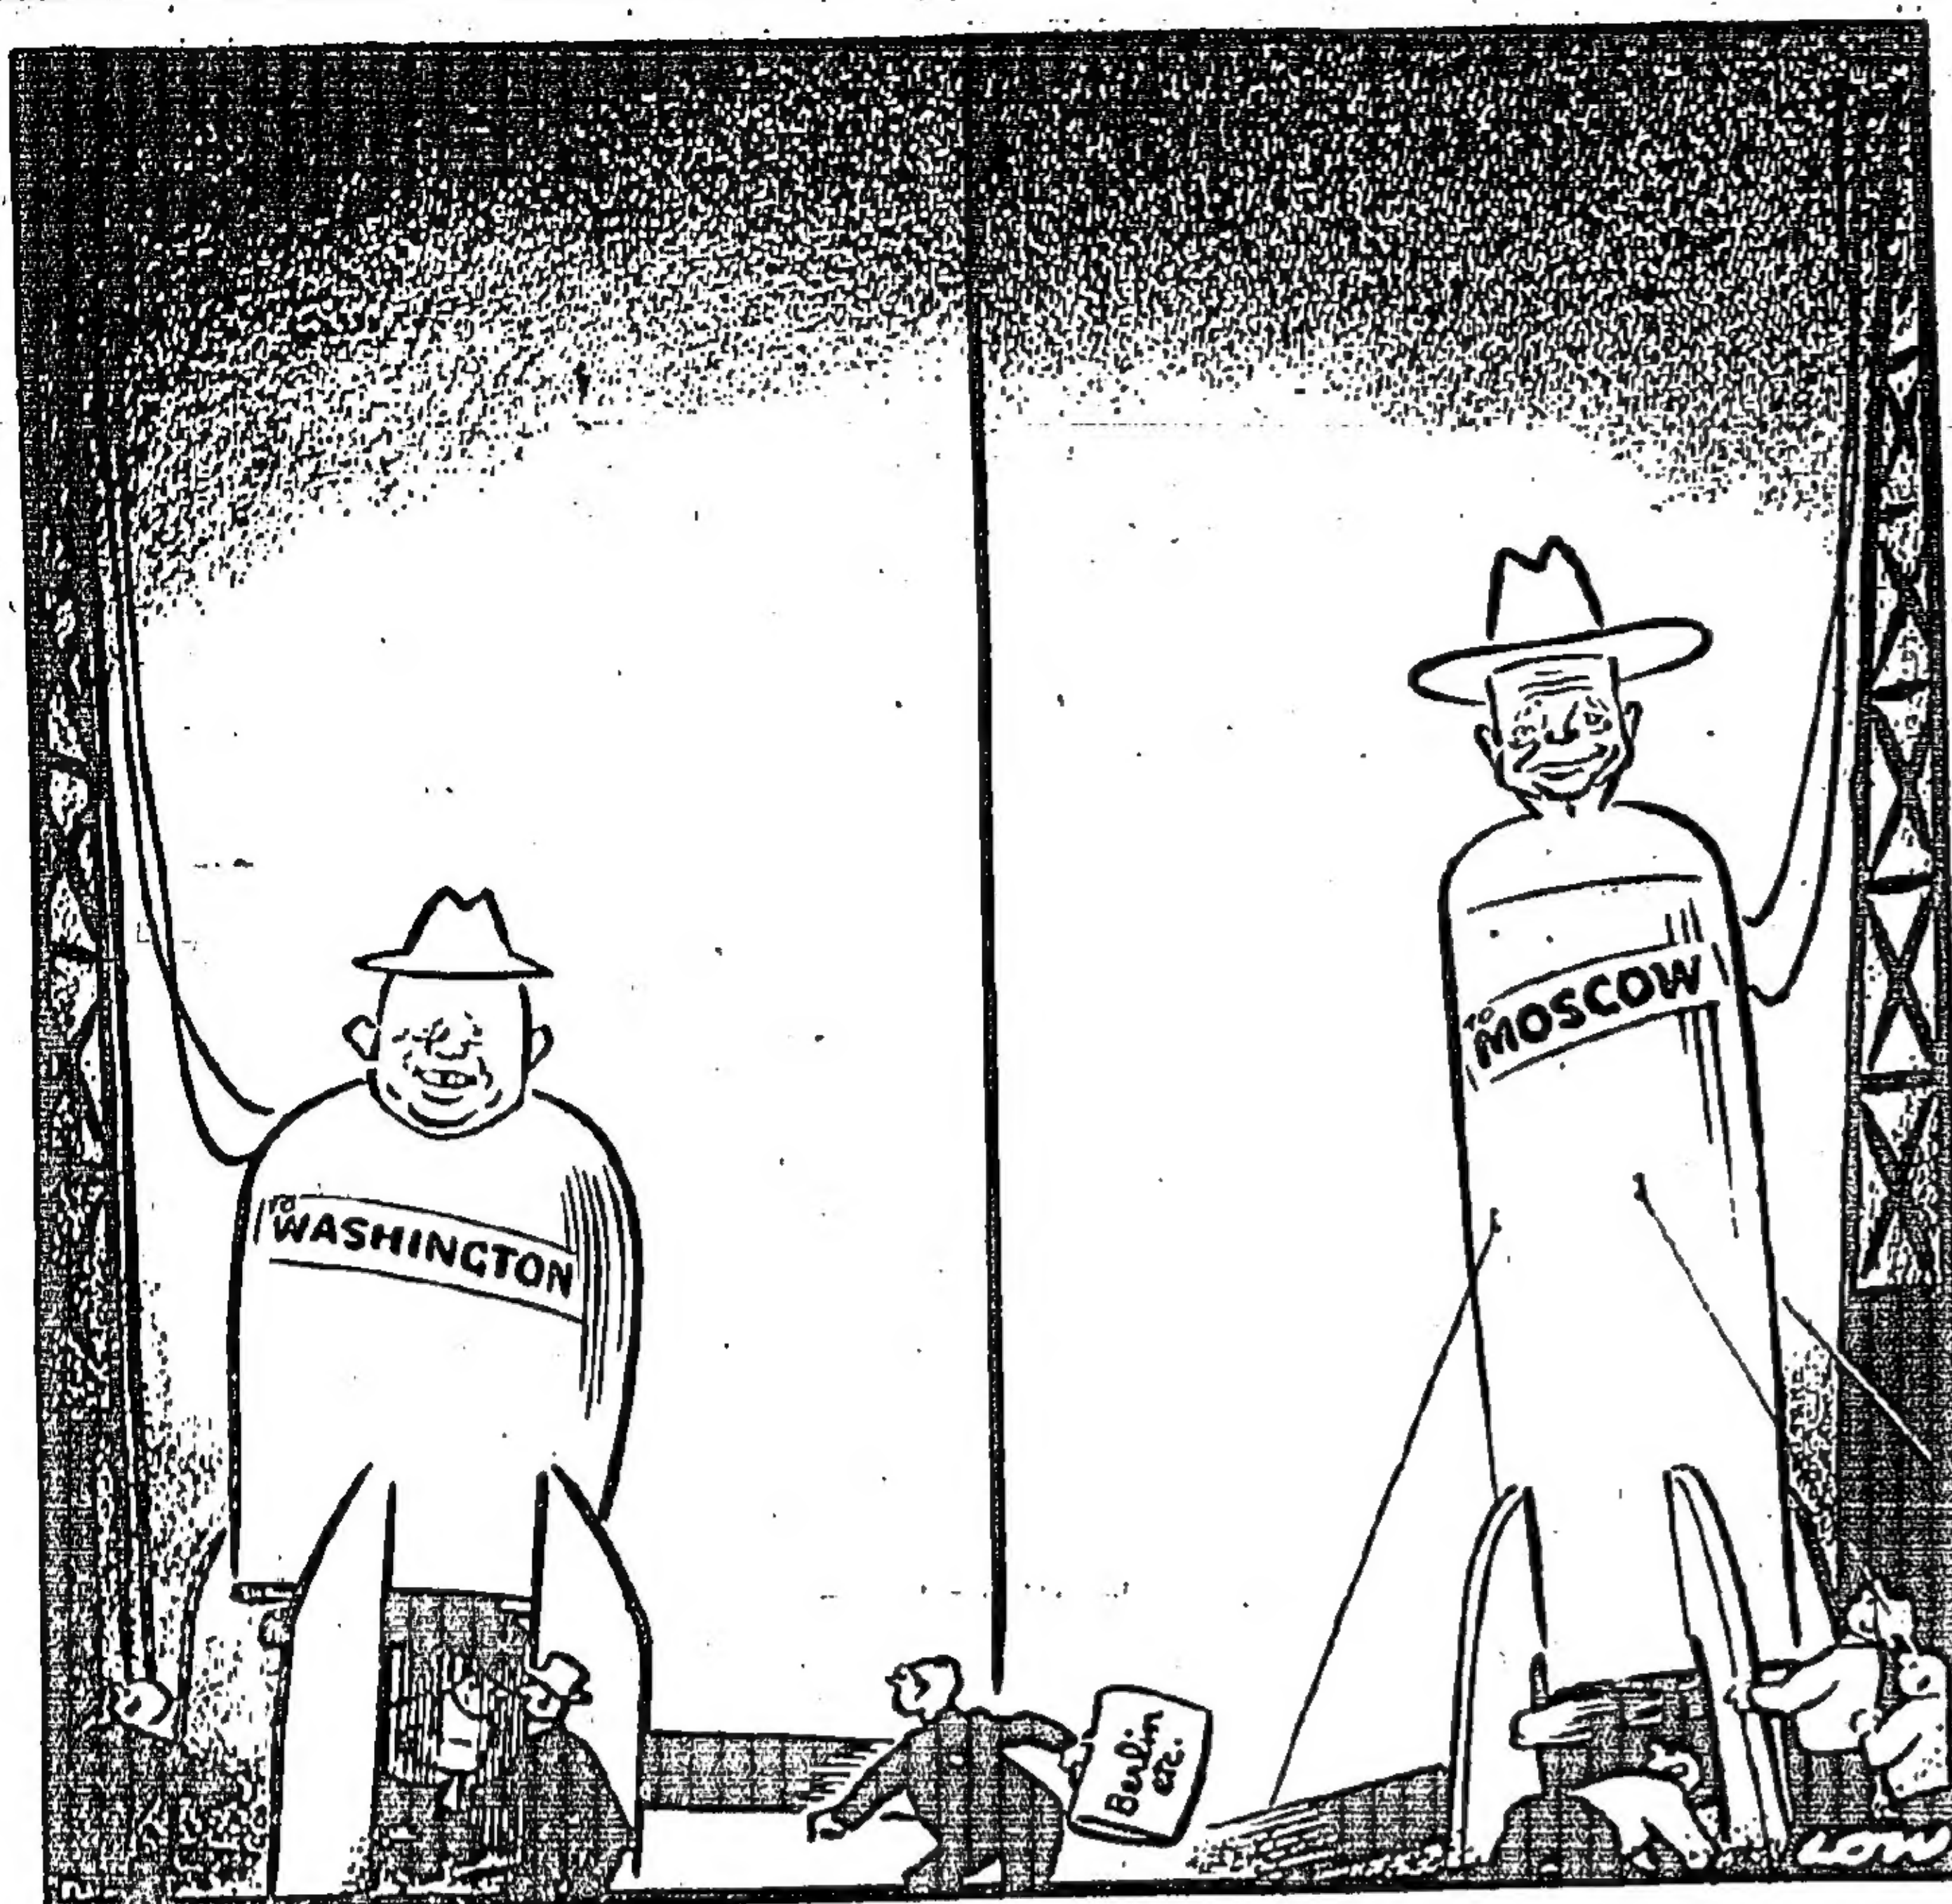

This was the area in which some Tibetans were reported to be conducting a signature campaign among Nepalese of Tibetan stock in the area claiming that they were Tibetans and not Nepalese.—Reuter.

Now De Gaulle is involved with the Folies

Paris. Among his other preoccupations, General de Gaulle now finds his government engaged in a quarrel with, of all things, the Folies Bergere.

For nearly a hundred years now the Folies and the government have not along together pretty well. The Folies pursuing their own untrammelled ways, and the government enduring its ups and downs as best it might.

Rent rise

Now they have fallen out—and over money. For it seems that the government, through a twist of history, owns the Folies Bergere building, and in its present economy-conscious mood it wants to put up the rent.

M. Paul Derval, the director of the Folies, tells me he has expressed his wounded feelings in a practical way—by going to law about it.

The trouble arises from the activities of one of the "Commissions of Economy" which are looking carefully over all sorts of public expenditure and assets in France just now.

The commission was quietly inquiring into the worth of various odd properties, such as dilapidated lighthouses and old barracks.

Then it came to light that the Folies building, to which so many tourists have flocked for so many years had, in a roundabout way, become national property, too.

The discovery was probably as surprising to them as it would be to most of the patrons of this celebrated institution, who have surely never thought of it in the light of a nationalised industry.

However, the commission seized their opportunity and demanded a whopping increase in the rent. M. Derval rebelled. So a legal battle is in progress. If the Government are not satisfied with the outcome they may decide to sell the property along with the dilapidated lighthouses and barracks.

It may be that the government is interested to learn how the Folies came to be government property, by the way.

It seems the land was bequeathed to a hospital in the 16th century. After various vicissitudes, the hospital, still in existence, is now, under the control of the Ministry of Finance, and with it the Folies.

When he made his bequest, the donor said he hoped his pious charity would help to save his soul and atone for his sins on earth.

As the official who unearthed this bit of information for me remarked with wonder in his voice: "Just imagine!"

France has just boosted the import quota for Scotch to nearly double the previous amount, anyhow.

Art problem

Every day I see the polygot crowds stamping into the Louvre to look at the incomparable collection of pictures there.

Recently I spent some time in a part of the gallery which the public never enters. Like other great art collections, the Louvre is embarrassed by having more pictures than it can show.

It has, at present, 3,500 in reserve against 1,200 on view. This situation has disturbed Andre Malraux, the recently appointed Minister of Culture.

Although there is a long-term plan to expand the Louvre exhibition space so that many of these hoarded pictures can be shown, he is impatient for results.

He has just come up with the unexpected idea of exhibiting the cream of this vast reserve in a massive new building here normally devoted to industrial exhibitions.

Reserves

One of the idiosyncrasies of this building is that it has hardly any daylight. Paris, accustomed to seeing its art in rather more sumptuous galleries, will undoubtedly find it bizarre to view masterpieces in such a setting.

However, when I went to see the reserves—huge ranks of pictures wrapped up in dusts—it became plain that it was desirable to do something to put them on view.

Taking the unframed works from their shelves like books from a library shelf, I looked at pictures by Rembrandt, Van Dyck, Rubens, Poussin, and many others.

Many of these pictures have never been seen since before the war. It is a strange case of buried treasure in the heart of Paris.

For a long time her French fans have referred to Brigitte Bardot as BB. Since her marriage to producer Jacques Charrier a new tag is catching on. They are calling her BBC. I don't know whether Mr. Carleton Greene knows about this. (London Express Service).

The Widows Of Speed

ARE the deaths of men like Jean Behra and Ivor Bueb worth it? Most men will say Yes. Men will say that men like Behra and Bueb belong to that special class of man who hold death of no account. They live—and die—in every generation. They build empires, win wars, break records. All the time they laugh at danger.

But women, who count little of such glories, are the ones who are left, alone, to weep. It is a forbidding list, the number of women who are now left alone, the widows of the race track.

There was Segrave (who died on a Friday the 13th in 1930); who conquered the world of speed on land and, unsatisfied, turned to water—and was killed.

His wife, Lady Segrave, had been one of the prettiest blondes of the Gaiety chorus. She liked the quiet life later, but always she was sensible enough not to let her fears obtrude when her husband faced some momentous task. "A tearful and nervy wife might make him wretched," she said. (And much the same thing was to be said by many other wives later).

SECURITY...

But it is not only, merely, a lust for speed that drives a man. There was burly Alberto Ascari, one of the greatest ever, who was killed four years ago. He had a wife and two children.

He died thinking of them. He had just left one famous racing firm to join Lancia—because it would raise his pay and, he believed, ensure more security for them. It was the second generation of Ascari women to weep—his father too had been killed on the race track.

There was Luigi Musso, dashing young Roman, who was killed in July last year. His wife Louise, a former Broadway actress, had once said:—

"I hate racing. I'd like more than anything for him to stop. But he's the best. I have to put up with it."

by Donald Gomery

The night Musso died the great Fangio's wife wept with Louise.

A year before, after the death of another racing friend, Eugene Castellotti, Mrs Fangio had appealed to her husband to give it up. He went on. But after Musso's death he headed her renewed plea. Today Mrs Fangio is a happy woman.

... THE GLORY

There were smaller men in fame, but as big in heart

JEAN BEHRA—He followed Hawthorn.

ly a year ago I was with a mother, Mrs Allen Moss. Stirling's mother, Peter Collins had just been killed. Said Mrs Moss: "I wish he would give it up... I know Katie (his wife) would like him to retire."

But Stirling was saying that same day: "No, I'll not give it up. One has to do what one feels one must." The words of a great man. Yet...

The other night Katie Moss was comforting another widow of the track, Mrs Ivor Bueb, young, sweet-faced Betty....

Is the glory for men in this sport really worth the tears it brings for women?

If you had this man's money would you still work?

HUNTINGDON HARTFORD

BY Patricia Lewis

London. BEING one of those people with an enormous potential for doing nothing—money's the only obstacle—I fail to understand why people who can afford to do nothing don't.

This puzzlement has been forced on me by Huntingdon Hartford, the handsome grocery millionaire-umpire, under whose soft smile and softer cashmeres there throbs a driving dynamo.

The other night he asked me round for drinks at his newly built Mayfair new-house.

AN ISLAND

The business of the moment was Hartford versus Florida. "Holiday playgrounds are either very cheap like Miami Beach or it's very suburban like Palm Beach," he told me. "So I've bought up most of Hog Island just off Nassau for development under the new name of Paradise Island. There'll be a private club—membership 100 dollars a year—a yacht basin, an hotel, and an auditorium that can take anything from drama to ice-shows. Eventually I'd like to have a post-graduate school of liberal arts too."

Why Nassau?

"The Gulf Stream makes it much warmer than Florida... there's wonderful skin-diving which my wife Marjorie loves... and then there's the no-tax situation. Also it'll give us something to do in the winters."

The switch from Palm Beach to Paradise Beach will cost Mr Hartford on investment about 14,000,000 dollars ($84,000,000).

Fascinated, I asked Hunt to list some of his activities.

"Well, I'm chairman of two boards—one's the Oil Shale Corporation which is a whole new idea of getting oil from rock... and the other's the Speed Park Corporation... we're building the world's first fully-automatic parking garage just off Broadway. Then there's my art gallery."

"Currently I'm putting on my play 'Jane Eyre' in London when I can get the casting straight."

The last time I had seen Huntingdon Hartford he was casting the same play for its Broadway production. His choice of Errol Flynn for Mr Rochester was unfortunate, Errol Fortman took over the part for its eventual two-month run.

"Yes, we had a lot of trouble," admitted Mr Hartford shaking his head dolefully. "But this time I hope to get Jack Hawkins or Paul Scofield, or Michael Rennie for the lead, so things should be easier."

A THOUGHT

I wished Huntingdon Hartford joy and prepared to leave. But I could hold back the question no longer.

"Why do you do work when you don't need any more money?"

He took off his glasses and grinned shyly.

"Well, I guess I've just got that sort of mind," he said. "I'm an Aries, you know."

Does anybody know a Capricorn millionaire? It would be such an encouragement to other Capricorns—like me.

What Paris only does to people! Take that enchanting little Japanese actress Yoko Tani. After years of conventional up-bringing in Tokyo—lower arrangements, the tea ceremony, and all the other refinements every young Japanese girl should know—she went to France to study at the Sorbonne.

After three years her family sent for her. They had, according to custom, selected a husband for her. But those three years of Western life had made their mark.

Yoko felt it was impossible to marry a man she had never seen, so she proceeded to spend the money sent by her "honourable father" for the fare home.

"Wasn't he furious?" I asked her when she told me the story over lunch.

"Evidently," she replied with a pgle.

"But I got work dancing in night clubs and then someone gave me a part in the French version of 'Teahouse of the August Moon'. That led to an invitation to the Cannes Film Festival in 1955 and it was there I met my husband."

"The man from Japan?"

"No—French actor called Roland Lesaffre. We married two months later."

"What did your father say?"

"He was very angry, but he has now met Roland and all is forgiven."

Yoko is lucky. Her younger sister has just been married. It was all arranged for her.

ARCHIE MOORE STILL THE CHAMPION

Knocks Out Durelle In Third Round To Retain Title For 8th Time

Montreal, Aug. 12.

Champion Archie Moore floored Canadian Yvon Durelle four times tonight before knocking him out in the third round of their return title fight to equal the record of eight successful title defences in the light-heavyweight division.

Durelle, brawny Canadian fisherman, was floored the same number of times tonight as he was in their December 10 fight. He was counted out two minutes 52 seconds after the start of the third round.

This time he failed to score a single knockdown against 43-year-old Archie, who in the previous fight went down four times before knocking out Durelle in the 14th round.

Tonight referee Jack Sharkey counted out Durelle as he lay helplessly on his back, with blood pouring from his nose and mouth, after being knocked down for the fourth time in the third round.

128 Knockout Wins

The count-out extended Archie Moore's all-time all-division knockout record to 128 and extended his unbeaten record to 17 bouts. At the same time, Archie's eighth career full distance, equalled the record of Max Baer and others who lost the light-heavy title when he risked it the ninth time against Bobo Olson in 1951.

Moore, weighing 174½ pounds, to Durelle's 173.

fought on fairly even terms with the aggressive, wild-looking French Canadian in the first two rounds, but at the very beginning of the third, running old Archie, wearing a five-day moustache and face beard, went to work on his opponent.

Archie, who had been shaken up by Yvon with long, solid left jabs in the two opening rounds, jarred Yvon with a right to the face. Then he staggered him with a left-right to the head.

Battered

He kept battering at the reeling challenger until a right knocked Yvon completely off balance and then another terrific right to the face dropped him to one knee for a count of nine.

On his feet again, Yvon was battered toward the ropes. A right followed by a left hook sent Yvon slithering down the ropes for another knockdown.

and nine-count. On his feet, Durelle was battered about the ring until another right to the face sent him half way through the ropes and then down onto the canvas for a knockdown and a count of six.

The game Canadian rose again and was battered about the ring until another right to the face sent him half way through the ropes and then down onto the canvas for a knockdown and a count of six.

It was Yvon's 21st defeat in 101 fights, and his eighth knock-out loss.

Two of the three judges had Archie winning both the first and second rounds on points, but the third judge gave Yvon the second round. The United Press International had Moore ahead in the first two sessions.

The crowd in Montreal Forum was estimated at 11,000 and the gate at $155,000.

Moore, favoured at 13-5, was guaranteed $175,000 against 40 percent of the gate and 10 percent of the $125,000 television money. Durelle was guaranteed $15,000 against 20 percent of gate and TV.

To Fight Johansson?

Archie's impressive victory, just at an age when most professional fighters have retired to their families and slippers, puts him into position for a big-money fight with either heavyweights champion Ingemar Johansson or middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson.

Manager Jack Kearns said in the dressing room, "Johansson has been offered $1,000,000 to defend his title against Archie in Europe or in the United States and Archie will be given a guarantee that is agreeable to us. We've called Johansson and we're agreeable to the fight. No, I can't tell you who's putting up the money—but it's absolutely sound."—UPI.

Dan Waern Runs 4-Minute Mile For Fifth Time

Stockholm, Aug. 12. Dan Waern, of Sweden, who on Monday broke his own world 1,000 metres record won a mile race in 3 minutes 59.2 seconds at Westerstans, Central Sweden, tonight.

This is the fifth time Waern has run a four-minute mile, bringing him level with Australian Nery Lincoln, who has also achieved the feat five times.

They now share third place in the four-minute mile list behind Herb Elliott, the Australian world record holder, who has clocked less than four minutes on 11 occasions, and his compatriot John Landy, who achieved the feat six times. Elliott's best time is 3:54.5.

Second was S. Lewandowski of Poland with 4:00.6. Third was Hannu Mäkelä of Norway (4:00.8) and fourth J. Grello of the United States (4:01.0).—Reuter.

SCOTTISH FOOTBALL

Surprise Defeat For Rangers

Glasgow, Aug. 12. Heat-wave conditions brought soccer supporters out in their thousands for tonight's Scottish League Cup games.

His surprise of the programme was the 2-1 home defeat of Rangers by Motherwell, who won a fast, exciting game in which both teams fought hard to follow up victories gained on the season's opening day last Saturday.

Sent Off

Temper flared at Dunfermline, where the home side beat St Mirren 3-0. Baker, the St Mirren centre-forward, was sent off the field following an incident with Dunfermline's goalkeeper.

Hearts recovered from a poor first half and held Aberdeen to a 2-2 draw. Highest score of the night was St Johnstone's 6-3 triumph over Alloa.

Year's Best In Women's Pentathlon

Moscow, Aug. 12. Irina Press, sister of Tamara Press who holds the women's world record for the discus throw, today made the best women's performance of the year in the pentathlon, during the Spartakiades Russian sports festival here.

Miss Press recorded 4,768 points in the event, which consists of a 200 metre race, a 1,500 metre race, a broad jump, a javelin throw and a discus throw.—AFP.

Ken Barrington Rescues Surrey From Lancs' Attack

London, Aug. 12.

Ken Barrington, who has been scoring heavily for Surrey, again came to their rescue today as the County Cricket champions met with trouble against Lancashire's attack.

Barrington in a determined mood scored 64 of the total of 204 for nine declared. Peter Loader took two Lancashire wickets in the last half hour to give the champions a slight edge in the match.

Rain upset several matches, only 65 minutes play was possible at Cardiff, where Glamorgan scored 53 without loss against Nottinghamshire and Somerset made 98 for three in a rain-interrupted day's play against Warwickshire.

Century By Marshall

Ray Marshall, Hampshire's West Indian opening batsman, made 104 — his fourth century of the season — against Sussex and with Jimmy Gray (82 not out) put on 185 for the first wicket. Marshall, who batted for three hours, hit 15 fours.

Another West Indian batsman, Derbyshire's Laurie Johnson, hit 53 against Essex and passed a thousand runs in the season for the first time. Arnold Hamer had the bad luck to be out for 91 for the second successive day.

Barry Knight, 21-year-old Essex fast-medium bowler, took four wickets in seven balls without cost and ended with figures of five for 44.

Scores

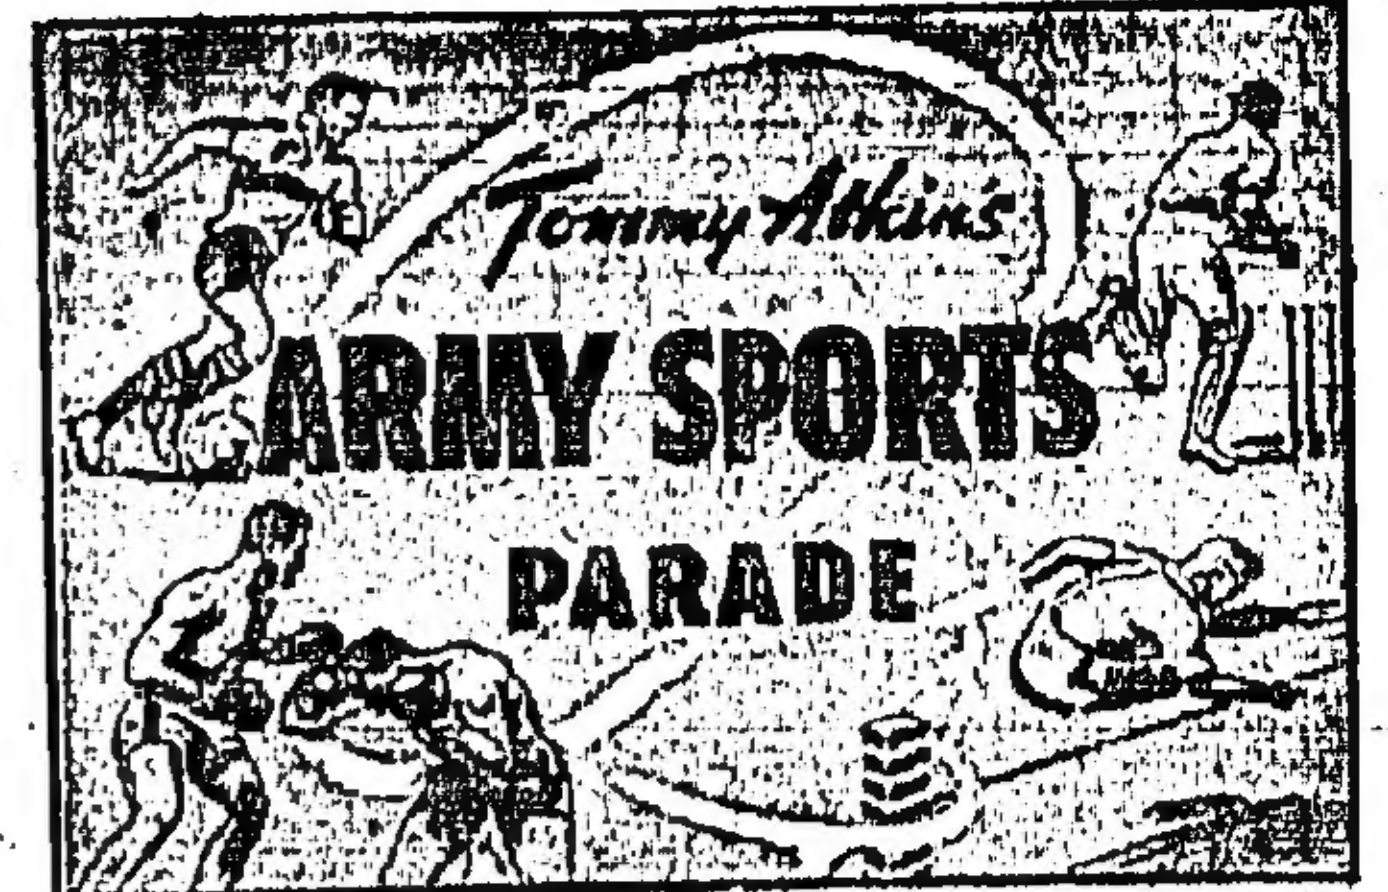

Close of play scores in today's cricket matches were: At Weston - Super - Mare: Somerset 98 for three (M. Tremlett 40 not out). Versus Warwickshire. Rain stopped play.

At Cardiff: Glamorgan 53 for no wicket. Versus Nottinghamshire. Rain stopped play.

At Cheltenham: Gloucestershire 190 for three (M. Young 82 not out). Versus Middlesex. Rain stopped play.

At Portsmouth: Hampshire 213 for one (R. Marshall 104, J. Gray 82 not out). Versus Sussex. Rain stopped play.

At Lord's: Royal Navy 122 (D. Norrie 44 not out, D. Meakin five for 47), and secondly 60 for no wicket (A. Brown 53 not out).

The 1st Lancashire Regiment last week won the Army water polo knock-out competition by beating HQLF by seven goals to one in the final.

The competition started with the Lancs playing off the first match against CRE HK, whom they defeated by seven goals to three.

Higginbottom of the Lancashire Regiment, extremely well in defence and Greenwood played an excellent game in the Engineers' attack. There was some very good polo at times during this match, but throughout the greater period it developed into scrappy efforts.

The game between Camp Staff and Pay "A" was very closely fought out with the Gunners winning by the odd goal in nine, to qualify for the semi-final against 1 Lan Regt.

Outplayed

In the other half of the draw, HQLF (Victoria) scored a decisive 7-0 victory against HK Pro Coy. Pro played a very hard and plucky game but were outplayed by the more experienced and stronger HQLF.

The semi-finals on Tuesday were won by 1 Lan Regt and HQLF who beat HQ RASC by seven goals to three. The game between HQLF and HQ RASC was a very good one with H. Kilt, Spooner, Moss scoring two goals each and Court the odd one.

The final was played off at Victoria Barracks swimming pool before a good crowd. It was a brilliant game with very little transgression of the rules by either side and excellent sportsmanship prevailed throughout.

Going straight for their 7-1 victory, Fairclough scored three goals for the Lancs followed by H. Ken with two goals and Higginbottom with one.

The Garrison Commander, Brigadier Chesnut, presented the trophies for this competition and also the prizes for the Minor Units tournament to the winners, CRE HK, and the runners-up, the "Victorians."

With only one more game to play—that between HQLF and RE "A"—the first five places in the side-side hockey tournament have already been decided.

The positions are as follows:

	points
Pay "B"	30
BMH HK	23
Provost	20
Camp Staff	20
Pay "A"	18
RE "A"	14
1 Sq HK Sig Rgt	9
HQLF	8
RE "B"	2

The game between Camp Staff and Pay "A" ended in a decisive victory for Pay. A very hard and strenuous game began with Camp Staff getting through the defence and scoring but this was disallowed (quite rightly so) for off-side. Pay immediately replied with three goals in less than three minutes all scored by Carr who seized every opportunity and enjoyed a "Field Day" with his fine stickwork.

Unlucky

Camp Staff returned to the attack and were unlucky to have another goal disallowed. Then Lawrence scored the first goal for Camp. But Pay always showed their superiority and quickly replied again through Carr. Bibby scored again for Camp and at half-time pay were leading by four goals to two.

On the resumption Carr scored two more goals to put Pay into a 6-2 lead. Camp Staff still continued to fight back and Lawrence scored again just before the end to reduce Camp's final margin of defeat to 6-3.

It is an unfortunate thing that throughout this competition games have been marred by faulty umpiring. Let me hasten to add that this has been due not to any bias but merely to the lack of experienced and qualified umpires. One must have the greatest admiration for those who turn out to umpire or referee games, but all too often keenness and enthusiasm do not cover faulty decisions.

A new six-a-side hockey knockout competition has already begun with the draw as follows:

FIRST ROUND
1 Sq HK Sig v. RE "A" SECOND ROUND
Pay "B" v. Winners of above.
HQLF v. Camp Staff.
BMH HK v. Provost.
Pay "A" v. RE "B".

There is news from home (UK) that the 20-year-old record for the Discus pairs has been beaten. The record breaking pair were L. M. Ware and Capt. H. Grantwood from the East Surrey Regiment. This happened when the 3rd Training Bn. Royal Engineers won the team Championship.

Olympic Divers Can Go Up Spring-Board By Lift

Rome, Aug. 12.

Divers at next year's Olympic Games here will be able to save their breath and go up by lift to the spring-boards of the newly-built pool.

Ladies will find electric hair-driers in their cabins. Four new pools have been built a stone's throw from the main Olympic Stadium at the foot of a hill near the Tiber river.

The pool for the Olympic swimming events measures 50 metres by 25 metres. The others are a five-metre deep diving pool (20 metres high), a shallow pool for inexperienced swimmers and a children's pool.

The Olympic pools will be inaugurated on August 22 with a swimming contest among Britain, Sweden and Italy, and a water polo match between Hungary and Italy. There will also be a international diving competition. The whole installation will be thrown open to the public on the following day. There will be permanent accommodation for 5,000 spectators, but capacity can be increased to 20,000.—Reuter.

Canadian Women's Open Golf Tournament

Toronto, Aug. 12.

Mrs Mariene Stewart Streit kept her bid for a record sixth Canadian women's open golf championship alive today, but another five-time winner was eliminated in the second round at the St George's Golf Club.

Mrs Streit defeated Mrs Betty Stanhope Cole, the 1957 winner 2-and-1. However, 65-year-old Ada MacKenzie of Toronto was defeated 5-and-4 by 15-year-old Gayle Hitchens of Vancouver, the runner-up in this year's junior championship.

Tomorrow, Mrs Streit meets Judy Darling of Montreal who defeated Mrs M. S. Sample of Pennsylvania 7-and-0. Judy's sister, 18-year-old Mary, lost 6-and-4 to Mrs Morley Spearman of England.

Two highly-rated Americans, Mrs Frank Stranahan and Mrs Barbara McGhie, also advanced to the third round. Mrs Stranahan of Ohio, defeated Mary Gay of Calgary 4-and-2 and Mrs McGhie, of New York, beat Rae Milligan of Calgary, 6-and-5.

Mrs McGhie meets Miss Hutchings tomorrow.—UPI.

WOMANSENSE

FOR YOUR AUTUMN WARDROBE....

FROM DUBLIN:

Shirts, sweaters and separates

Dublin.

Eire is swinging into the field of fashion with a vengeance and experts are predicting the three 'S's for the colleen who knows what to wear.

Sweaters, and in fact, all woollens, have already made news in Dublin, because for the first time Ireland is producing pure cashmere!

First sample was a pure cashmere twinset with an angle on line. A short-sleeved jersey with the blouse effect, worn under a loose, soft cardigan-jacket with very low buttons. Favourite colours: brown, yellow, and blue.

The shirt story is also important, because smart women have taken to wearing their husbands' shirts.

Colour

They take their husband's crispest shirt (preferably in cream or plain coloured poplin or with a stripe), wear it open at the neck, fastened at the cuffs. For informal cocktail time, the neckline is closed with a pure silk sweater scarf that matches the colour of the shirt.

Separates are carrying all before them. Since men's clothes of most kinds have become fashion winners, chunky sweaters are most popular—and they really are tailored for the gentlemen, snapped up by the ladies.

There's a riot of colour, with brown predominating, and pure

By JILL BATEMAN

Wool Weaves

To wear with the sweaters, there is every type of slacks or trousers. Clinging black slacks for lounging; fancy Dublin (heavy wool) slacks trimmed with Crisotana (coloured wool weaves) for informal parties.

Skirts in flaring, buttoned tweeds; pure wool dirands with wide bands of hand-woven tweed; wrap-around slim black "n" white checked woollens, fringed and buckled.

Irish couturiers who live in London, play a lively part in their designs. Dobby Morton co-ordinates Irish tweed skirts with blouses; John Cavanagh picks Irish mohair for a cream two-piece; Owen at La Classe thought up "Garnish Island" for an eye-catching suit and Glenconville turquoise for a dress.

RIGHT: What you can do with a man's shirt... when it's a man-tailored woman's shirt! This version is in cream cotton poplin. A red slim skirt in black and white check tweed is worn with it.
LEFT: This loose-knit sweater has an enormous coffee and white bordered collar. The black ski-pants are ideal for casual wear.

Calypso is the name of this Christian Dior (London) creation shown in London the other day. It is a flame print silk tulle cocktail dress.

WHEN A GIRL MARRIES HER BOSS...

London. ONCE upon a time when a girl married her boss she was thought to have achieved the pinnacle of the working girl's career. Now doubts are being cast on the whole system.

Bride-to-be Audrey Maclean feels perhaps that the penial live-wire behind six telephones is one person and the "boss" beat kept late again husband is another. The other day Audrey became engaged to her boss, television producer Brian Tesler.

Cheerful

Said Audrey: "When we are married in October I think I shall give up work. But, you know, I shall see a lot less of him that way. We've been working together nearly every day for two years."

Always ready to be the spectre at the feast (you really can't want people too much about matrimony, can you?), I would warn Audrey to "keep right on working beside her boss" if she wants to go on admiring the man.

All my life I have worked for male bosses, and I have mostly found them at least cheerful and unassuming. On the occasions when I have visited their homes I have been astonished at the change. Dour, disinclined to help with the washing-up, and talking their wives in a tone they would never dare use to their secretaries. The more high-powered in the office, the less luminous at home is the way it seems to go.

There's nothing like marriage for dulling your appreciation of the office wit. My husband may be a ball of fire in the office for all I know, but as he has never been my boss I don't suffer from the comparison when he gets home. And although his kept-late stories are sometimes coolly received, at least I've never been around to disprove them. Marriage is very nearly bliss. But keeping on the spot is often better.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Perk up young appetites by making a face atop a meat patty, mashed potato, or peach salad. Slices of pimiento-stuffed green olives make eyes and ears; a half slice, up for a smile and down for a scowl.

After washing a brush and comb, rinse in a solution of one tablespoon of baking soda in a quart of warm water. The alkaline action of the soda cuts and removes any remaining oil.

Use up ripe bananas by making fritters or try a banana loaf cake; both should be popular with the family.

Remove grease spots from clothing with flour. Put a clean cloth underneath the garment and rub flour on the spot. Then rub the spot with another clean cloth. The method is useful for taking off grease from shirt collars.

String loops on household brushes usually get hopelessly twisted. Tie curtain rings to the handles instead.

Dress up fish sticks by spreading grated onion and a little prepared mustard on them while frozen. Sprinkle with poppy seeds and bake according to package directions.

Many colours, particularly yellow, are brightened by the immersion in a solution of alum.

When cakes and other desserts covered with icing come in cellophane packages, let cold water run over the package. The cellophane will come off without spoiling the icing.—UPL

LADY LUCK

Your CHINA MAIL Horoscope

THURSDAY, AUGUST 13

AQUARIUS (January 21-February 19): Finding yourself in a rather awkward situation, you will not be able to straighten things out by irresponsible action.

PISCES (February 20-March 20): Your emotional stability will be a great asset to you when having to make a difficult and far-reaching decision.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Your love of fun must not be carried too far; be serious when the circumstances require it.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You will not find great favour with those close to you if you persist in your pedantic attitude to trifling matters.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21): Do not carry to excess your inclination to do the work of others instead of delegating it.

CANCER (June 22-July 21): You will have an excellent chance to show a close friend how fascinating it is to be a good home-maker.

LEO (July 22-August 21): Since you dislike enlisting the co-operation of others, you must learn the hard way how to overcome difficulties.

VIRGO (August 22-September 22): You have recently shirked a responsibility which was entrusted to you and you ought to make amends while there is still time.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22): Sincerity in your thoughts and actions will win the confidence of those who may at first have doubted your motives.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21): Your great ability to find the right solution for other people's problems makes you the most sought-after of advisers.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21): Knowledge which you have acquired through study and hard work must be retained by making the best use of it.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 20): Since it is essential to your well-being to have your feet financially on the ground, you must do all you can to conserve your funds.

YOUR LUCKY NUMBER: Count the letters in your first name and add the total to the number shown in brackets after your sign of the Zodiac. This is your lucky number for the week.

how to keep COOL

THE AMERICAN WAY

HOW to keep cool when it's hot is a problem that every woman has to face sometime, especially, on holiday.

Most of us sweat—and swear sometimes!—in the heat, but there is, in fact, a well-tried American-devised method of keeping cool that is remarkably successful.

FOR EXAMPLE...

It helps if you "think cool." Concentrate on how pleasant it is in the shade—not how ghastly it is in the sun.

Gloria Gordon's COLUMN

Fresh Flower

Wear a dark cotton frock; it's remarkable how cool it makes you think!

of your neck. A pony-tail, a chignon or a plait.

Little Make-Up

See that the dark cotton frock is loose, easy-fitting.

Wear the minimum of make-up, and never a greasy foundation. Treat yourself to a frozen cologne stick.

Draw a definite line when you don your jewellery. White necklaces help, so do a few narrow bangles, or light crystal ear-rings. The less jewellery, the cooler you'll keep.

If it's hot and likely to rain, keep a cotton scarf handy to tuck into the collar of your raincoat. This is wonderfully cooling.

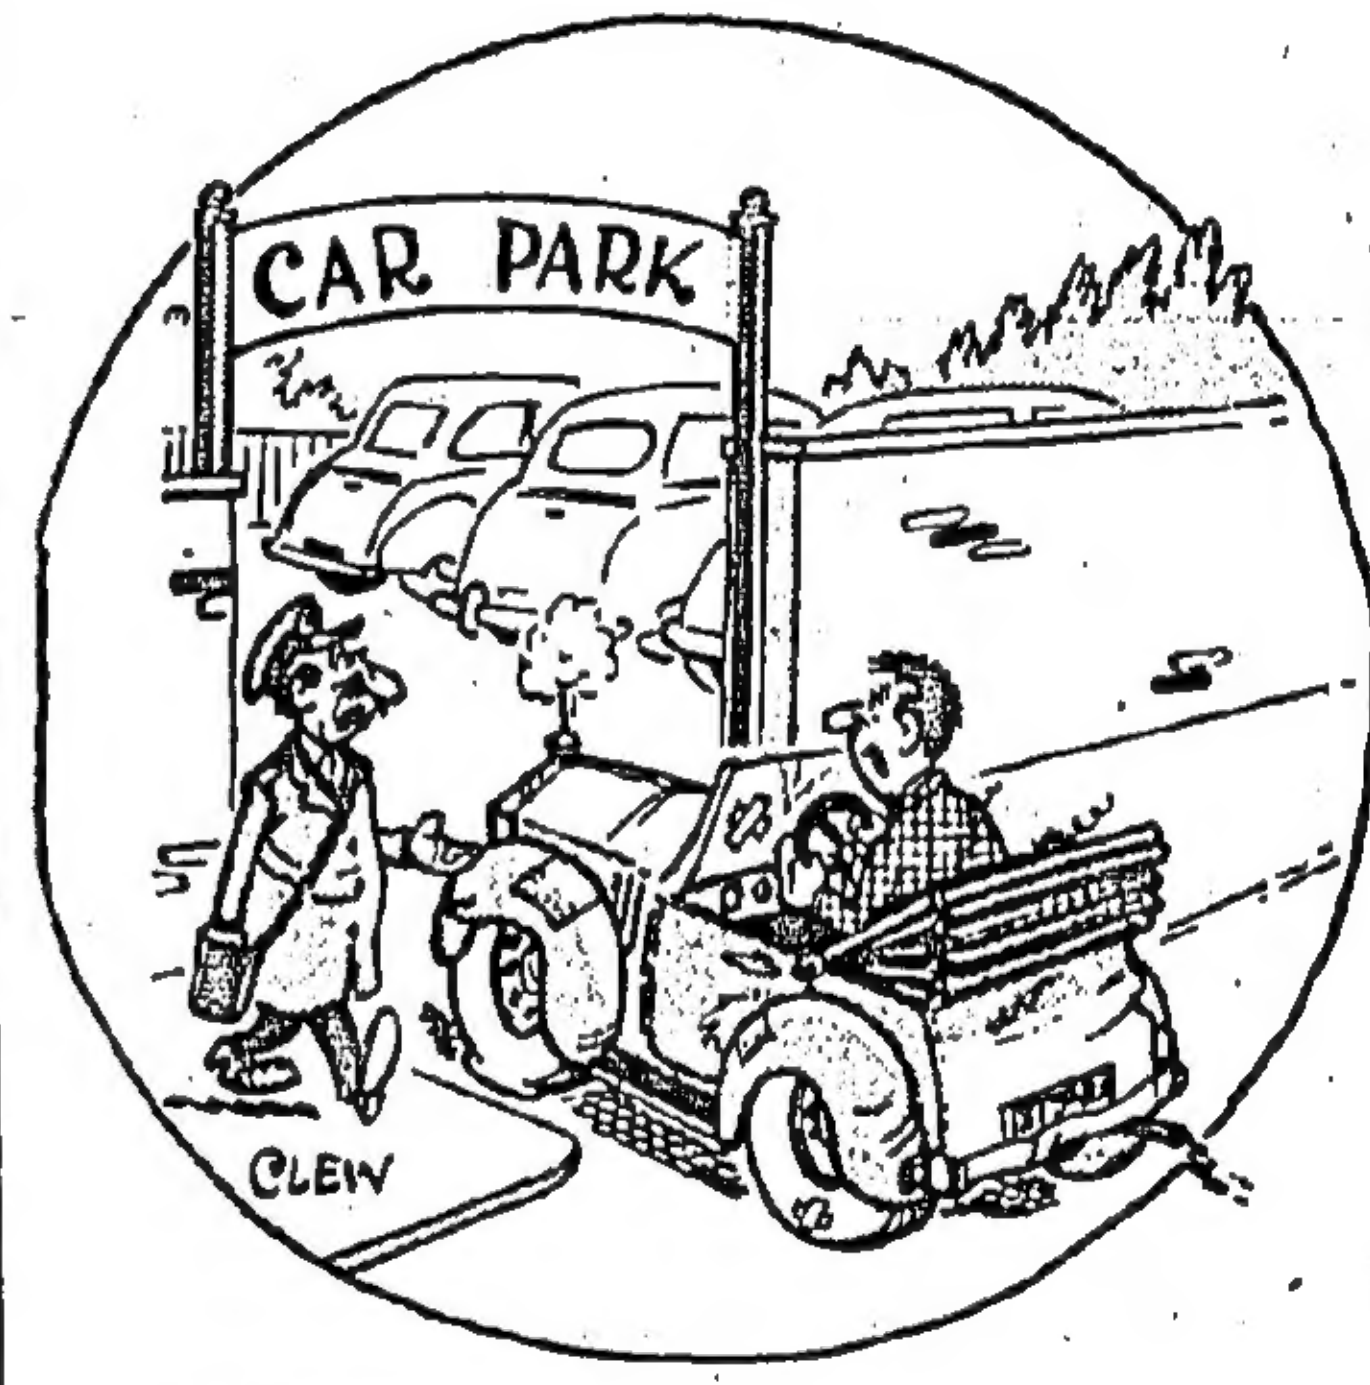

Wear a fresh flower. Pinned on to your collar, it will bring down your temperature by several degrees. Go hatless and wear sunglasses practically all the time.

If you can't put your hair up, wear a hat—but only if you can't. Then choose a large, shady straw. After all, holiday time is the one time you can wear a large shady straw.

If you must have a belt, make it white.

Try to choose shoes which are bare-sided: never mind about the toes and heels, they can be closed. Keep your hair neat, and off your face and the nape

Now, following these rules, you should—like thousands of American women—be able to face the heat without getting overheated yourself!

"Half a crown, mate!" "Sold!"

JACOBY on BRIDGE

WALTER Gilbert of Kansas City was rather disappointed when his opponents reached four spades against his ace opening bid.

He cashed two high hearts and shifted to the king of diamonds. South drew trumps and threw Walter back in with a diamond lead.

As a look at all the cards shows, South had eliminated all unfavourable leads and Walter had to either give a ruff and discard or shift to a club.

If he had simply led a low club East's jack would have fallen to South's king and South would then be able to finesse for Walter's queen.

Walter was not going to commit suicide so simply. He led the queen of clubs.

This threw the harpoon into South. It looked as if Walter was leading from queen-jacks not queen-nothing. South won in his own hand and fished for the jack he thought Walter held.

East made his jack and this particular elimination play had been eliminated.

Whale Of A Fishing Trip

—Simon Is Landed—Korplunk!—Right In The Playroom—

By MAX TRELL

IT was a strange thing. It was after midnight. The house was still. Soft moonlight came in through the window and lit up the side of the bookcase. Suddenly from the inside of the Mother Goose book came a long fishing line. Down, down, down it came and stopped a few inches away from the floor.

Knarf, the Shadow Boy with the Turned About Name, saw it first. He quickly woke his sister Hanid who was sleeping in the corner beside him. "Look!" he said, and he pointed to the fishing line that hung just a few feet away.

Playroom Awakens

Knarf and Hanid woke every one else in the playroom. In a few minutes, Mr Punch and General Tin, the Tin Soldier, and Teddy, the Stuffed Bear, and Mary-Jane, the Rag Doll, and Hiawatha, the Wooden Indian, were gathered around the fishing line and looking up to see who was holding the other end.

"It's somebody inside the Mother Goose book," Teddy, the Stuffed Bear, said.

"Yes," said Hanid. "But who?"

"Hello, up there!" Mr Punch shouted. "Who are you? What are you fishing for?"

No one answered.

But the fishing line started swinging from side to side. Whoever it was holding the line was now making it move.

"He's trying to catch a fish," said Mary-Jane, the Rag Doll.

"But there aren't any fish down here," said General Tin. "That Mother Goose fisherman is fishing in the wrong place."

"Hello, up there!" Mr Punch kept shouting.

The line swayed more and more.

Hanid had a good idea.

"Let's hold on to the line," she said, "and when I give the signal, let's all pull together! Let's pull the fisherman down!"

And that's what they did!

Knarf and Hanid and Teddy, the Stuffed Bear, and Mr Punch and General Tin and Mary-Jane, the Rag Doll, and Hiawatha, the Wooden Indian, all took a firm hold on the fishing line.

In a Heap

"Pull!" shouted Hanid.

"They all pulled. From above they heard a great noise. The next second someone came tumbling down from inside the Mother Goose book.

He landed in a heap and they crowded around him.

It was Simple Simon!

"I was fishing for my whale," he said. "I thought sure this time I had caught it! Where am I? Am I at the bottom of the ocean?"

Hanid said:

Lifted Him Back

"You've fallen out of the Mother Goose book, Simon. You're a very foolish boy. No matter how long you keep on fishing, you'll never catch a whale."

Then Knarf and Mr Punch and General Tin gave Simon a boost and lifted him back into the Mother Goose book.

They all pulled together on the fishing line.

"Just the name," they heard him saying, "I'm going to keep on fishing for that old whale!"

But Simple Simon's fishing line didn't come out of the Mother Goose book any more that night. Simple Simon kept fishing for the whale in his mother's wooden pall. It was much better than fishing for it out of the Mother Goose book into the playroom.

Big Fight Investigation Continues MANAGER CUS D'AMATO, BECKLEY CALLED UP FOR QUESTIONING

New York, Aug. 12.

Cus D'Amato, Floyd Patterson's manager, was questioned in the District Attorney's office today and Gilbert Lee Beckley, a gambler, spent 25 minutes before the Grand Jury which is investigating underworld influence in boxing.

District Attorney Frank S. Hogan said D'Amato, a central figure in the investigation of the promotion of Patterson's June heavyweight title fight with Ingemar Johansson, would be subpoenaed to appear again on Thursday.

Hogan said yesterday Beckley and Frank Erickson, the gambler known as "King of the Bookmakers", met with promoter Bill Rosenzohn before Patterson-Johansson bout.

When Beckley and his attorney, Joseph Delaney, left the jury room, they were asked if they had co-operated with the panel.

"We answered any questions we were asked," Delaney said.

Beckley also said he had answered the jury's questions. He also was asked his present occupation.

"At the present time I am not doing anything," Beckley, 47, replied. "It's my belief my testimony in the Grand Jury is secret and I want to keep it that way."

Beckley said he had no meetings with Erickson in Florida. Delaney said he knew Erickson but that he didn't know whether Beckley had an interest in Rosenzohn Enterprises, from which Rosenzohn resigned last week.

Beckley received a subpoena to appear again on Monday. He is only a witness and cannot be prosecuted for what he told the Grand Jury. He was not asked to sign a waiver of immunity from prosecution.

Hogan refused to disclose the identity of the "underworld character," who, he said, met with Erickson, Beckley and Rosenzohn.

He said he could not disclose the man's identity because "the job" was not yet completed.

Hogan said he also wanted to talk again with Rosenzohn, who is slated to appear before the Grand Jury on Aug. 28. Rosenzohn currently is on vacation in France.—UPI.

The Tragedy Of Soccer's Former Wonder Boy ALICK JEFFREY NOW BREAKS HIS OTHER LEG

By ALAN MANLEY

Alick Jeffrey, football's former Wonder Boy, who broke his RIGHT leg playing for England Under 23's against France at Bristol in October 1956, last week broke his LEFT leg in a comeback practice match.

He had decided to prove the medical experts wrong and make a comeback with Skegness, the Midland League side, backed by the encouragement of manager George Raynor.

It looked as if he was winning his battle. Last week he scored three goals in a Skegness trial and was playing with confidence and zeal.

Then he collided with the goalkeeper, a Hungarian. As officials rushed to him he asked Raynor sadly: "Is it a break?"

It was. He was rushed to Boston's emergency hospital, where an X-ray examination revealed the tibia and fibula bones were broken. "This is the end. I'll never play again now," he said.

The news was taken to Alick's wife, Sheila, at her home in Church-road, Skegness. Alick had moved to Skegness after accepting Raynor's offer of help this summer, and took a job at a local holiday camp. Two months ago his son, Alec, was born.

Raynor said: "It's a terrible tragedy." Of Jeffrey's chances of succeeding in his comeback fight he said: "It's not much use talking about that now."

After the tragedy in the Under-23 international—the injury occurred in a collision with Tyndal, French centre-half—there followed a long, long wait for Jeffrey then only 17.

A wait punctuated by arguments and recriminations finally ended in February, when he was awarded £4,000 compensation by the F.A. His former club, Doncaster Rovers, were given £15,000.

Never Again

The F.A. decision to "write-off" Jeffrey came after a specialist had given the thumbs down verdict on a two-year fight to regain fitness. "He will never play in the League again," they said.

This looked the end for the man who had won England caps as a schoolboy, as a youth, as a senior amateur—and who was tipped to play for the full international side before he was 20.

Jeffrey never finally accepted this verdict. That is why he went to Raynor, the man who had coached Sweden to their World Cup final, and who had said: "I think there is still a chance for him."

So fate steps in again. This time, even Jeffrey's courage will not be enough to win a second such battle.

OPEN SINGLES BOWLS FINALISTS

G. A. SOUZA

M. B. HASSAN

G. A. Souza of Craigengower Cricket Club and M. B. Hassan of Indian Recreation Club yesterday qualified for the final of the Hongkong Open Singles lawn bowls championship by winning their semi-final matches.

At Hongkong Football Club, Souza, seeking his first title in the event, scored a surprisingly easy 22-10 victory over his Craigengower club-mate Francis Lee.

At Kowloon Bowling Green Club, Hassan, winner of the title in 1953 and runner-up in 1949 and 1955 after trailing behind by 5-10 staged a strong rally in the second half of the game to beat veteran R. F. da Luz by 21-17.

British Ex-Boxer Aids Stranded Filipino Fighter

Singapore, Aug. 12.

A former British boxer has helped Filipino feather-weight Ray Ming Chan out of his income tax troubles.

Ray has been stranded in Singapore because he has been unable to pay $3256 which the income tax department is claiming from him.

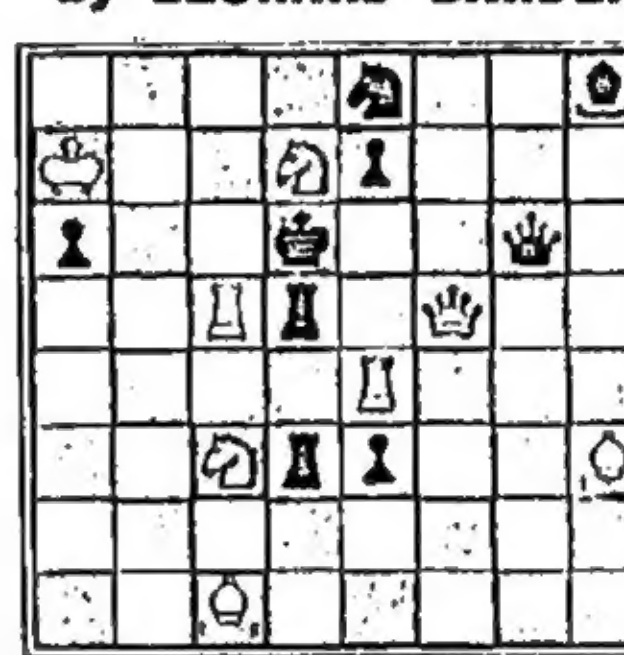

Yesterday he offered to sell one of his silver trophies in order to raise the money.

Today the former fighter, a 40-year-old, prisoners' officer, handed Ray a cheque to cover the income tax claim.

He refused to reveal his name.—Reuter.

Chisox Maintain AL Baseball Lead With 11-6 Win Over Detroit

Detroit, Aug. 12.

The American League leaders Chicago White Sox came up with a pair of four-run rallies in the fifth and sixth innings today to offset homers by Harvey Kuenn, Al Kaline and Frank Bolling and score an 11-6 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Chicago collected all its runs on only eight hits while Detroit rapped three White Sox pitchers for 14 safeties. The Sox opened the scoring in the third on a walk, a single by Earl Torgeson and successive doubles by Nelson Fox and Billy Goodman, good for three runs.

They added four more in the fifth when relief pitcher Pete Burnside walked the two lead-off batters, allowed Earl Torgeson to reach base on a fielder's choice and gave up a homer to Sherman Lollar, the only hit of the inning.

Four More Runs
The Tigers scored four runs in the third on a walk, back-to-back homers by Harvey Kuenn and Al Kaline, a single by Gail Harris and a double by Lou Berberet. The Tigers picked up their other two runs in the seventh on a homer by Frank Bolling with Eddie Yost on base.

Slaley, who pitched three innings, got credit for his fifth win against three losses. Burnside was tagged with his second loss without a win.

Sammy Taylor followed with a one-run homer to send Don Drysdale from the mound with his seventh loss of the season. The side-arm right-hander faced only five batters, all of them scoring.

Winning Pitcher

The victory went to Bob Anderson, who himself needed help when the Dodgers erupted for five runs in the eighth, including a three-run homer by Charlie Neal.

Iry Noren and Al Dark also hit one-run home runs in the game. Every Cubs starter except Anderson scored or batted in at least one run.

Tony Taylor started Drysdale's downfall with a leadoff single. Then George Altman was hit in the ankle and Jim Marshall singled to drive in Taylor. Banks' homer followed.

Gary Winram Retires From Swimming

Sydney, Aug. 12.

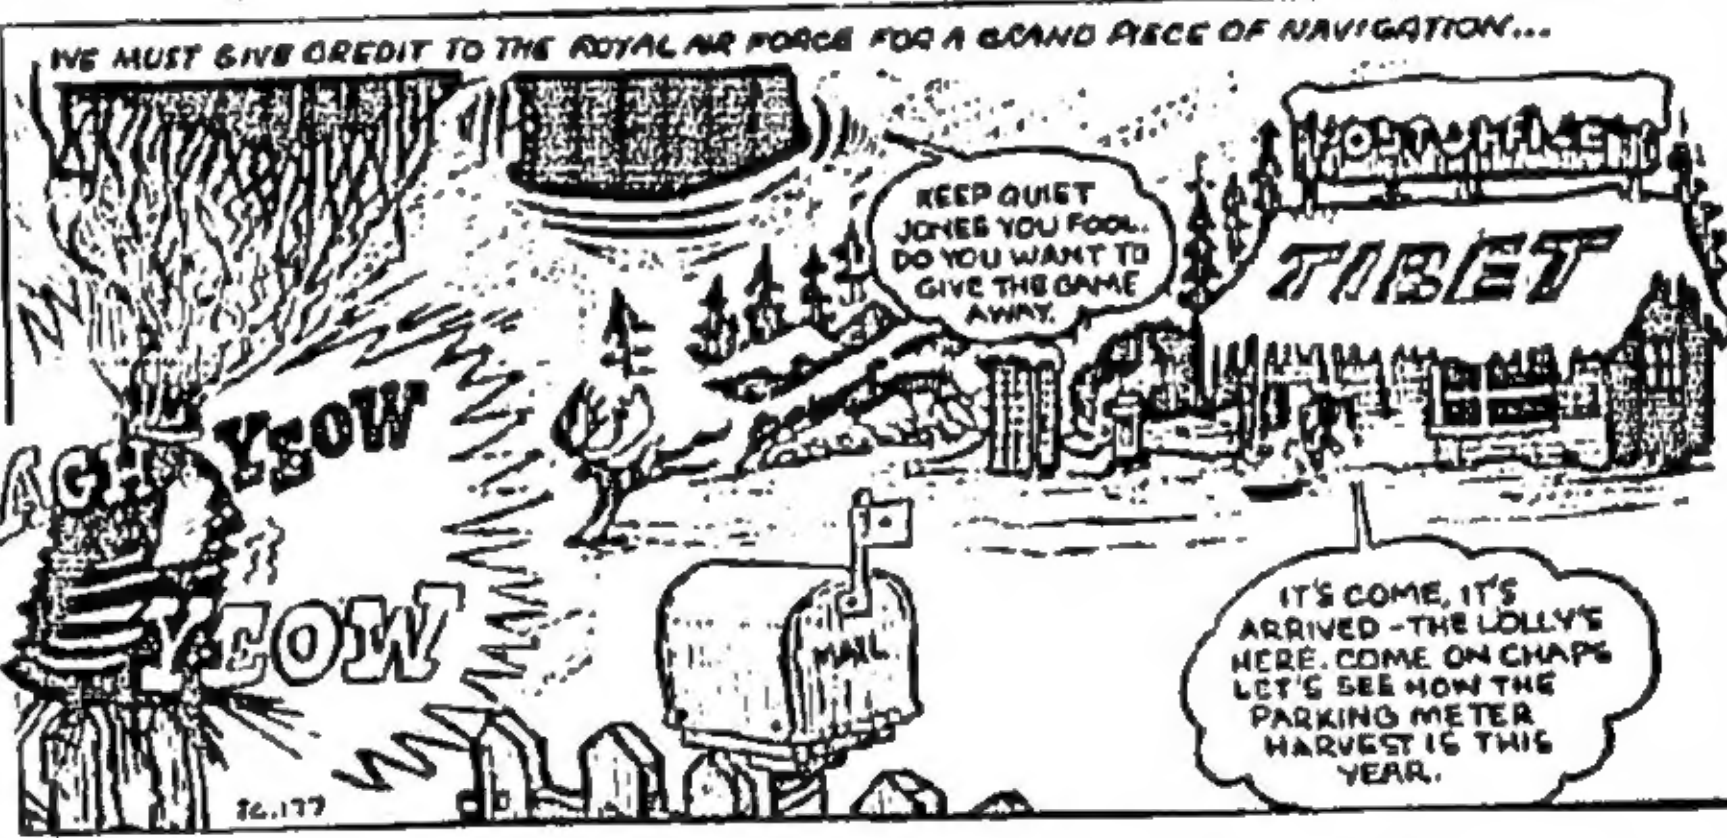

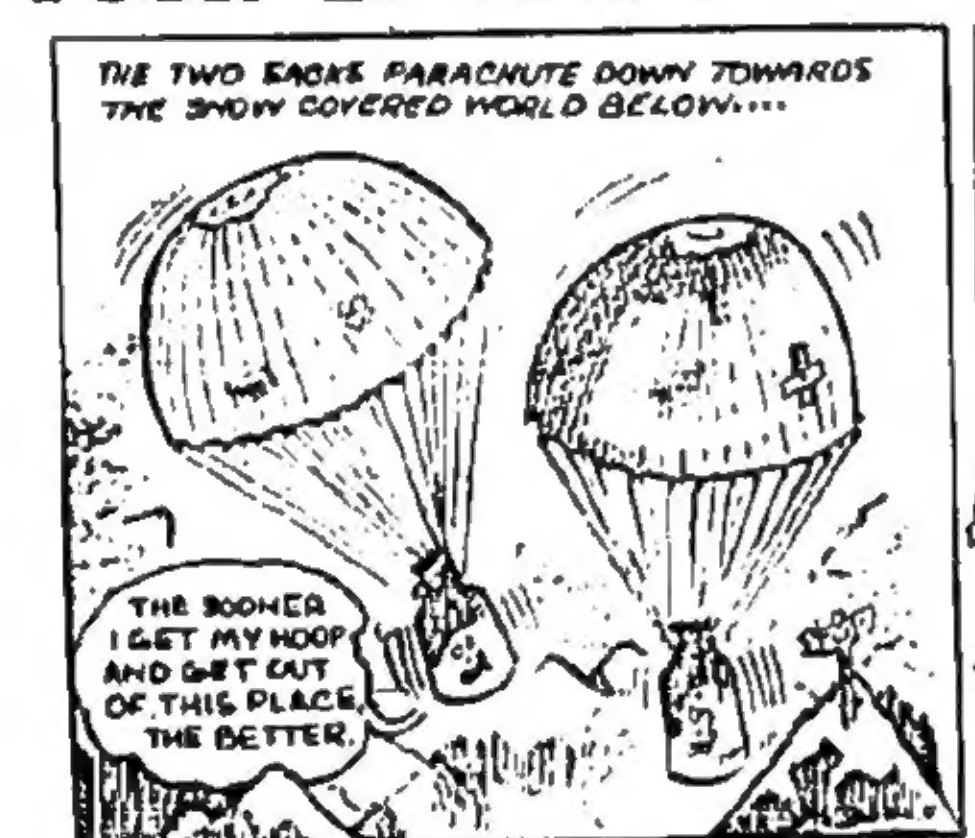

Olympic swimmer Gary Winram, announced his retirement from competitive swimming today to concentrate on a business career.

Winram, 23, is the second Australian Olympic and Empire Games swimmer within a week to announce his retirement. Last Thursday, Gary Chapman gave up swimming for the same reasons.

Today, Winram said "Financially, I just find it impossible to keep devoting my life to swimming. To represent Australia I have had to give up work for long periods and I have reached the stage now where my sales assistant job comes first."

Winram was the first Australian to break 10 minutes in the 1,500 yards in 1953. He was a finalist in the 400 metres style at the Melbourne Olympics, a silver medalist at 1,500 yards and a bronze medalist at 440 yards free style at the Empire Games in Cardiff.—UPI.

AND NOW "Haute Couture" Influences From The Continent

New York, Aug. 12.
Handbags for men? It will happen, says one menswear manufacturer, unless the American male reasserts himself and says no to some of the "Haute Couture" influences from Italy and France.
And, unless he also says no to the woman who insists that he look to the Continent for styles, as she does.

Stanley Goldman, executive Vice-President of Eagle clothes, changed that "you women take everything Paris and Rome says as gospel, and now you're trying to get the men to do the same."
The American male already is the best-dressed man in the world, they should copy it.

New Trends
He labelled "slim, slick and dilly" some of the trends in men's fashions. He said some European designers are leaving out pockets to prevent distortion of a suit's lines by cigarettes, wallets, handkerchiefs and other things.

"I hear they're about to make men's handbags to hold such necessities," said Goldman.
"If you, manly men don't stand up and be counted... well, one day we may be back in skirts."

Goldman, with the 40-year-old firm for the last 10 years, said that he is all for changes in men's styles. But not in the extent of the extremes currently available.

"The narrow pants which show a man's kneecap when he walks, ridiculous," he said. "Or coats so snug they look like the man's outgrown them. Sports jackets which look like old bandings."

If the Frenchman is well dressed, I will close the doors of my office tomorrow," he said.
"And the Italian! Some of the men look like they're in hand-me-downs."

Goldman believes the average man wants "to look good in his clothes" but not like a dandy.
The firm, which does a $15 million business annually through stores across the nation, feels the most popular suit of all is the one with three-button jacket, notched lapel, flap pocket, and double-pleated trouser fronts.

"The average customer says 'I want to see a nice suit,'" Goldman continued. "He does not come in and ask for the Continent." The Continental, incidentally is high fashion's latest for men—the jacket is fitted slightly through the waist, the pockets have well instead of flap openings, and the trousers are smooth across the front.

The pleated front is strictly for the young figure, he said.
"By the time a man's waist measurement is 34, and there's a little paunch, put him in a pleated and he's finished."—

"There was a frank exchange of jests and insults, and at the end of the meeting the two starring statesmen removed their false noses and shook hands cordially."

Second-hand puddings
AN advertisement for "a limited number of second-hand Christmas puddings, slightly shop-soiled" made me wonder to what use the purchaser would put them. The best so often made about cars
—"We got it second-hand"— would hardly be laudable if the purchase was brought to the table. When a second-hand cheese, in an advanced stage of disintegration, was served at a racing-motels' lunch, the host said: "It's already done seven years."

MEN'S HANDBAGS

A Murderer Takes A Walk

In a well-pressed navy blue suit, with well-brushed hair and a jaunty breast-pocket handkerchief, a man goes off to buy himself a drink in a Wakefield pub.
Nothing unusual, except that the man is a murderer, accused of being hanged in 1948, and now nearing the end of the "life" term to which his sentence was commuted. The phenomenon is part of the "hostel" system which is revolu-tionising modern prison life in Britain. Under it men like this, in the last six months of a long term of imprisonment, with an exemplary record, are prepared for their return to civil life. They sleep in a hostel close to the prison, with unlocked doors, go out to work every morning — at union rates, though they are only allowed to keep up to £1 of their weekly pay-packet, are completely free to do as they like between 7 and 11 in the evening. They can even go home for Christmas, Easter or August Bank Holiday. So far all have kept to their trust — knowing that if they do, in a few short weeks they will not have to go back to prison at 11, or at any other hour.

STUDY MADE OF GIFTED CHILDREN

Champaign, Ill., Aug. 12.
The conversation of gifted children will be studied by tape-recorded, classroom discussions. The new project is part of the University of Illinois Institute for Research on Exceptional Children.
The main goal of the project is to learn how productive thinking can be stimulated in school children of average intelligence.
The Institute has been given $15,000 for the study from the Elizabeth McCormick Memorial Fund of Chicago.

PRODUCTIVE THINKING

The project's first year will be devoted to listing types of verbal interchange in the classroom, finding out more about productive thinking, and what may encourage or hamper it, and determining what role the teacher plays in this type of thinking.

Recordings made in a social studies class at the laboratory school of the University of Illinois College of Education will assist investigators in spotting behaviour indicating productive thinking, and how classroom conditions affect it.

Students from the social studies class at University High School, the lab school, will be members of the sub-freshman class, a select group of high scholarship and intelligence.

Hiroshima's New "Sister City"

In East Germany

Tokyo, Aug. 10.

THERE is hardly a city in Japan that now hasn't become a "sister city" of another overseas. But the most recent of such arrangements is rather unique — Hiroshima is to become the sister city of Dresden in East Germany.

Scene of the Fifth World Conference against Atomic and Hydrogen Bombs, Hiroshima, was flattened 14 years ago with the first atom bomb, and has now rung up another "first" by deliberately linking itself with a city behind the Iron Curtain—a move which will certainly cause a considerable headache to the Japanese Government.

The Conference had too much political buns for four delegates who walked out after the fifth day. Arthur Goss and Weyland Young of Britain, along with two West Germans, found themselves involved in an unacceptable degree in an obvious pro-Communist meeting which ruined the entire significance of the Anti Atom Bomb campaign.
Even before it got under way,
the government of Japan refused any support and the Governor of Hiroshima declined to attend on account of the anti-Western attitude of so many delegates—both Japanese and foreign. Rightist groups burst into the hotel where the Australian delegation was staying and ordered the members to get out of Japan. They also threatened Kaoru Yasui, chairman of the Conference.

Considerable ill-will has been created through foreign delegates making speeches against Japan's proposed revision of the Security Pact with the United States, and other forms of interference with this country's affairs.

With Hiroshima linked to Dresden, the Communists have succeeded in establishing a precedent in this form of "cultural" activity. It will be interesting to see what the Japanese government will do about issuing visas to diplomats from Dresden and pas-ports to their Hiroshima counterparts for interchanging visits and presents. Dresden is certainly to get a shipment of cherry-blossom tree saplings and the enthusiastic Mayor of Hiroshima will have a Dresden doll decorating his office—that is if the voters keep him in it.

Scientists Seek Information On Origin Of Life

Washington, Aug. 12.

Scientists are looking to Mars and perhaps Venus for information on the origin of life. How life came into being has puzzled and fascinated man ever since he developed the ability to ponder and wonder.

In recent years many scientists have come to the tentative conclusion that life developed spontaneously on Earth under conditions far different from today's.

If space age explorations reveal evidence of some kind of life on Mars or Venus, these scientists will feel their theory has received strong support.

The theory assumes that when the earth was young, around 4,500,000,000 years ago, its atmosphere was totally unlike what it is now. Then it may have consisted, largely of methane, nitrogen, ammonia, and some hydrogen.

ORGANIC LIFE

Under the influence of lightning discharges or of ultra violet light from the sun, these and perhaps other materials gradually formed into molecules of the kind now called organic.

The ancient seas these molecules somehow became
"self-replicating." After a long chemical evolution, something that could be called life developed, and from this evolved all of today's millions of biological forms.

But further support for the theory of spontaneous development of life, under the right conditions, may come first from the planets.

Scientists look to Mars and Venus because they are most like the Earth. They doubt that any other members of the sun's planetary family could ever have produced or sustained living things.

One indispensable condition for the creation of life, according to Dr H. C. Urey of the University of California, is the presence of water.

LESS HOSPITABLE

Mars, because it is very cold, and Venus, because it is very hot, now appear to be far less hospitable to life than the Earth.
And as far as scientists know,

Tokyo, Aug. 12.

Police said today a 38-year-old man without a single penny in his pockets drank eleven bottles of sake (Japanese wine), eight bottles of beer and four bottles of soft drink and ate four dishes of beef-steak, two helpings of ham, one plate of fish and a bowl of fruit, all in less than one hour last Saturday night at a restaurant in Chiba near here.

The man with no job and no fixed address was arrested by police. He had been convicted 22 times for drinking and eating without making payment.—Reuter.

STOCK MARKET REACTIONS

Most Vulnerable To Influence Of Political News

London, Aug. 12. The Stock Exchange impact of the Khrushchev-Eisenhower interchange of visits has been spectacular in Germany, vigorous in London and relatively modest in Wall Street.

These divergences are readily explicable. Germany being the most sensitive area of the cold war, the German Stock Exchange boom which had shown signs of flagging revived explosively.

By contrast, Wall Street's recent advances were partly random and have for some time looked vulnerable.

A sharp corrective setback has been overdue. It still cannot be definitely forecast but it does seem people will have a difficulty in explaining it retrospectively they never do.

May Be Awkward. Moreover, while a cessation of the cold war would be wonderful for the world and for markets, in the short run it could be awkward for some of Wall Street's recent gains, including some missile shares.

In London, as Mr. Macmillan is regarded as having broken the ice by his visit to Moscow and has subsequent actions, the new development was regarded as enhancing its already fairly good prospects of re-election, and also as enhancing the odds on his deciding to have the election this autumn—probably October—instead of leaving it until nearer the final deadline of next May.

The outcome bore but those who believed that if British steel and other shares had been around their extreme under-valuation until the election is decided, their attraction for foreign as well as home money on a Conservative win might have been enough to put some prices up 50 per cent in a week.

In the week to August 8 some foreign and home money decided to anticipate the election result instead of continuing to wait for it.

With big buying (notably including some from Germany) leading industrial shares rose to new peaks, led by steel and the other election risks.

At that they still yielded far higher than comparable German or American or Japanese or French or Swiss or Canadian or other shares.

Steel's seasonally had half-year starts with the best gain in the reserves for July 1959 (not excluding July 1953 when the gain looked bigger but was only).

Also valuable in the London market was the third report from the Cohen Council—the so-called Three Wise Men.

Their general theme is that the industrial sector has been broken and that the country should seize the opportunity to see that it stays broken.

Productivity. They also bring out that the rise in productivity (which may be nearing its end in the United States) is still to come in Britain.

Naturally they want the benefit to go to lower prices but their realistic prescription is "some incentive rise in pay and profits" combined with price reductions.

If the effect on profit margins and share prices is anything like what it has been in Wall Street, London Stock Exchange could have fireworks.

The Council also recommends less ploughing back of company profits—again for the sake of lower prices but in Stock Exchange eyes less ploughing back means higher dividends too—China Mail Special.

Buyers became more and more reluctant and there was small covering enquiry for September lower sheet on decline whilst August high grade sheet for Russian shipments only being switched against hedge position.

In London rubber was easier with spot quoted at 31 pence. In Amsterdam, the rubber market was dull today.—UPI.

New Record Production Of Non-Woven

New York, Aug. 12. Production of non-woven fabrics is expected to reach a record 125 million pounds this year as against 100 million pounds in 1958, according to chemical and engineering news.

The previous record of 110 million pounds was set in 1957. A decade ago annual production of non-woven materials was less than one million pounds.

Many experts agree, the trade publication said, that total production could triple within three years if this type of material could gain a substantial foothold in the clothing market.

Researchers are working on technological improvements to give non-woven fabrics better wearing qualities in the "shop" of gaining public acceptance for durable non-woven outerwear," the magazine reported.

Non-woven home products such as draperies, curtains, covers, towels and lampshades "are catching on" the report added.—UPI.

N.Y. AFFECTED BY LATE PROFIT-TAKING

New York, Aug. 12. The stock market ran into a wave of profit-taking in the last hour of trading today which sharply pared earlier gains and sent some issues into lower ground.

The electronics, which had featured on the upside most of the day, were hardest hit by the late sell-off. Some of the stocks, chemicals, drugs, motors also felt the selling pressure.

Vick Chemical, which was up more than two at its high, finished the session off around three. With all of the coming in the last hour, IBM, up six at its high, finished off around a point after being down six. Lillian, Texas Instruments, Zenith, Motorola and Ampex all traded losses for gains.

Despite the late sell-off, a number of issues outside the group used to compile the averages managed to hold on to gains running to four points.

At its best level of the day, the market had widened yesterday's gain to a point where the Dow-Jones Industrial Average was up 1.20 points, or 1.20 per cent, from its opening level.

But a late selling spell in Du Pont, US Steel, Goodyear, Eastman Kodak, Union Carbide and some of the other issues used to compile the average cut deeply into the early gains.

Today's volume was 2,700,000 shares. Of a total 1,210 issues traded, 530 were higher and 467 lower. American Exchange volume was 1,040,000 shares.

Bonds volume amounted to $3,000,000. Dow-Jones closing averages were:

London Market Improves

London, Aug. 12. The stock market today shook off the impact of Wall Street's sharp break on Monday to close with fairly widespread gains.

Steel shares boomed in a firm industrial market following the Lancashire Steel and Firth and Brown stock dividends and dividend forecasts. The former finished six higher and the latter 2 1/2 higher.

Gold stocks were firm. Oils scored gains ranging to about 2 1/2.

Gilt-edged securities were quiet and steady. Greek bonds edged in an otherwise quiet foreign market.—UPI.

CRITICISM of the Government's extension of buildings at Kai Tak Aerodrome has been made recently by several people who are under the impression that the landing space available at the only aerodrome in the Colony will be put to waste if the drome is to be partially surrounded by buildings. Their height is bound to constrict the landing space available for larger planes, such as mail and passenger machines, if and when these arrive at Hongkong.

A GROUP of Hongkong ladies, under the leadership of Professor L. Forster, have recently formed an association called the Hongkong Kindergarten Association.

The activities of this association are to be devoted to providing facilities for young persons of any nationality to train as kindergarten teachers.

The Association also provides opportunity for all interested in kindergarten work to meet for discussion of methods of teaching.
Professor L. Forster, as President and Mrs D. Orr as Vice President, head the committee which includes Mrs T. S. Price, Mrs N. Ritchie, Mrs E. V. Hooper, Madeline Cook, Fatey and Miss F. C. Woo, MBE.

Remanded

Two men accused of making plates bearing letters, figures and marks peculiar to Hongkong $100 banknotes were remanded four days by Mr T. T. Morris at Central Magistracy this morning.
Lum Him-shun, 37, farmer, and Wong Shun, 55, electrotypist, were alleged to have made four plates on August 11 at North Point Building, Block "E", second floor.

Canadian Tourists Will Visit China

A group of 17 Canadian tourists arrived from Tokyo by Pan American this morning for a five-day stopover, en route to China for an 18-day sightseeing tour.

The tourists, led by Mrs Claire Wallace of Toronto, consist of 16 women and one man. Mrs Wallace said this is the first large group from Canada ever to visit Communist China.
"It took me 10 days to get my visa and those of the group, through the necessary diplomatic channels in London."

Mystery Novelist

The group (see below) includes two Canadian MPs, Miss Margaret Aitken of Toronto and Mrs Jean Casselman of Prescott, Ontario.

To See Cities

Mrs Wallace said that the group would remain in Hongkong until Monday when they will board the train for Canton to begin a tour of a number of large Chinese cities which includes Nanking, Shanghai and Peking.
They expect to return to Hongkong on Sept. 4, and a plane for home the following day.

First Officer Seaman Tried To Sell Gun To Informer Returns As Captain

A ship's captain who was captured by the Japanese while sailing between Hongkong and Singapore in December 1941 as first officer on board the old Bennevis, arrives in Hongkong next week as captain of the new Bennevis.
The 12,540-ton cargo-passenger liner is the third ship of this name to sail under the Ben Line flag.
She is greatly superior in speed and cargo-carrying capacity to her predecessor which was sold earlier this year.
She will sail between Europe and the Far East and will take less than four months for each round-trip.
She has a service speed of 10½ knots and can carry eight passengers.
The Bennevis was formerly an escort carrier but was converted to a cargo vessel in 1948. She served on a five-year time charter which expired in April. Bought in 1957 by the Ben Line she has since undergone various modifications.

Seaman Tried To Sell Gun To Informer

A solicitor told a magistrate this morning that his client, "hardly a man," must have been reading some intrigue stories about the Far East, giving him the idea he could sell a gun in Hongkong for a good price.

The solicitor, Mr W. Turnbull, was defending a 20-year-old Danish seaman, Erik Watlesen, off the my Susanne Skou. Watlesen was charged with possession of a Beretta automatic pistol and seven rounds of ammunition, without a licence.
He pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $50.
Watlesen's ship arrived here on July 30, and the next day he went ashore, at about 11 p.m. He approached a Chinese man in Tsimshatsui and asked him if he wanted to buy a gun. Unluckily for him he had asked a Police informer.

Not Loaded

Two detectives arrived in plain clothes, and with the informer were led to a quiet street where the defendant asked for HK$100 for the gun. It was not loaded at the time, but seven rounds of ammunition were found on his person.

Det. Sub-Ins. K. E. Wellburn, prosecuting, said defendant had bought the gun in Italy for 12,000 lire. This was defendant's first trip to Hongkong, and he had a clear record. Defendant's solicitor said in mitigation, "He has been extremely stupid and foolish for offering the gun for sale. He did not really think about what he was doing."
"He merely wanted to sell the gun for some pocket money," he said.

MAN ASKS TO BE FREE OF POLICE SUPERVISION

An appellant Lau Chi-ming, before the Full Court this morning sought only the removal of Police supervision, complaining that it hindered him from getting a job.

Lau was sentenced to two and a half years' imprisonment and two years of Police supervision by District Judge H. H. B. How last month for attempting to pick a pocket.

He told the Chief Justice, Sir Michael Hogan and Justice J. R. Gregg that he once had a chance of working on board a ship, but when the Police wanted the master to sign a document he lost the opportunity.

Then he found work in a garment factory. The Police came along to make enquiries and his colleagues found out about him, and jeered at him. It came to the notice of the factory manager and he was dismissed.

He took in piece work at home, but business was bad and eventually he had no work at all.

"It is because I have been unable to make a living that I resorted to this offence," Lau said.

Refusing his appeal the Chief Justice said that having regard to his criminal record and the offence which he admitted, Lau's appeal should be a case eminently suitable for Police supervision.

Discharged

While at home in Denmark, the solicitor said, Watlesen must have been reading some intrigue stories about the Far East.

He asked the magistrate to take into consideration the fact that he had been discharged from his ship, which had left the Colony. Also, he had been in custody for 12 days.

The solicitor added that approximately HK$100 was due to his client as wages.
